

1. In a scene from this work entitled “Trial One,” a lawyer says that “if you see any of those baggy pants it was huge Mr. Moscone.” This work is divided into smaller sections called “knee plays,” one of which features its protagonist announcing the death of Harvey Milk, and Act 3 of this opera contains the section “I Feel the Earth Move,” a reference to the protagonist’s home of (*) San Francisco. While the protagonist of this musical is not as committed to nonviolence as the man its composer originally wanted to put at its center, Mahatma Gandhi, she authored a 1994 Federal Assault Weapons Ban and has since worked to promote gun control legislation in the Senate. For 10 points, name this minimalist opera about the senior female senator from California, by Philip Glass.

ANSWER: Dianne Feinstein on the Beach

2. This book criticizes Mill and de Tocqueville for “devaluing the consequences of a process they favored for the sake of principle,” and its preface quotes Samuel Johnson that “he who makes a beast of himself gets rid of the pain of being a man.” The narrator discusses the rise of cultural consumption while he travels in a 650 Lightning in L.L. Bean shorts and a Butte sheepherder’s jacket, and this work argues that the center of debate and discourse has moved to (*) coffee shops, where people meet to consume drugs like LSD and mescaline. It was inspired by the author’s attempts to interview the activist Oscar Acosta for Rolling Stone, and it was originally published with illustrations from his previous partner on “The Kentucky Derby Is Decadent and Depraved.” For 10 points, name this work of “gonzo journalism” by Jurgens Habermas.

ANSWER: The Structural Transformation of the Public Sphere and Loathing in Las Vegas

3. This play begins with a small group of members of 5 company refusing to eat breakfast in solidarity with one of their companions. Albertine’s affair with a black chauffeur in this play mirrors larger racial tensions caused by a large rise in the black population at its central location, and the death of George Jackson in (*) San Quentin State Prison inflames characters in this semi-autobiographical play, whose plot was inspired by the author’s lover Dashiell Hammett. This play centers around Carrie and Anna Bernier, who take care of their younger brother Julian after he squanders his money and is sent to jail. At the climax of this play, Governor Nelson Rockefeller orders state police to storm the house of the Berniers, resulting in at least 43 deaths. For 10 points, name this play by Lillian Hellman about a prison uprising in New York.

ANSWER: Toys in the Attica Prison Riot

4. This work compares its titular figure to Freud’s conception of “das unheimliche,” while it explores other surreal themes in a story where a woman enters her maid’s room and eats part of a cockroach. The author identifies ten “plagues” of the capital or global system, including economic war, foreign debt, and the arms trade, and identified a new activism called the “New International,” which participated in political demonstrations against Brazil’s military dictatorship in 1968. This work examines (*) Marcellus and Horatio’s interactions with the ghost in Hamlet, and it provides a stream-of-consciousness without time, names, or actions in the section Agua Viva. For 10 points, name this work by Jacques Derrida about the Brazilian author of Family Ties, The Passion According to G.H., and the Communist Manifesto.

ANSWER: Clarice Lispector’s of Marx

5. A specific type of this reaction is named for Rainer Claisen and J.G. Schmidt, and it is involved in the synthesis of dibenzylideneacetone. This reaction has been criticized for “ambushing” Iggy Azalea at a concert in Denver, though it has claimed that TMZ blew that meeting out of proportion. This reaction differs from Knoevenagel condensations and Perkin reactions in that they are inactive rather than “Radioactive” in the presence of (*) Imagine Dragons albums. It was developed by an M.I.T. student and D&D champion who lists M.C. Escher as his favorite MC and produces enones and polka melodies, and it is used commercially on the albums “Straight Outta Lynwood” and “Alpocalypse.” For 10 points, name this reaction in which an enol or an enolate ion reacts with a carbonyl, followed by a dehydration, used in the production of parodies like “White and Nerdy.”

ANSWER: “Weird” Aldol condensation

6. One figure in this artwork is actually named Blanche, but the artist didn’t find her name interesting enough to use for the title. A green vase of white lilies next to another figure in this work indicates her pregnancy, while the other figure wears a sash inscribed with the artist’s name and period-appropriate dark green (*) bell-bottoms. This work shows its artist’s own interpretation of Hogarth’s The Rake’s Progress, and it inspired marble copies by Canova as well as a more disturbing one by Dali. One character in this artwork lounges in a chair by a balcony with a large white cat on his lap while the other steps forward in contrapposto. This work depicts Celia Birtwell and her husband Ossie shortly after they completed a task set to them by Polydectes to kill the sister of Stheno and Euryale. For 10 points, name this work of art depicting a recently-married couple holding the head of a gorgon, by Benvenuto Cellini and David Hockney.

ANSWER: Mr. and Mrs. Clark and Perseus with the Head of Medusa

7. Arnold Toynbee has argued that this condition was caused by the spread of Islamic ideas and philosophy in the 7th and 8th centuries, and it has been described as a form of “medieval class struggle.” Corticosteroids and long-acting beta agonists are sometimes used to treat this condition, which was ameliorated by (*)

Theodora wife of Theofilos, and it can be triggered by the policies of Leo V at the Synod of 754. The “hygiene hypothesis” claims that this condition is caused by the lack of exposure to pathogens that results from the inability of matter to accurately depict divinity. This condition is often thought to be caused by the Biblical ban on “graven images,” and it can be exacerbated by air pollution. For 10 points, name this condition in which the sufferer destroys their own religious or political symbols and portraits, often treated with an inhaler.

ANSWER: iconoclasthma

8. Blake Lively was criticized for captioning an Instagram photo with a lyric from this song, whose use in treating infections in the Red Army was pioneered by Giorgi Eliava. This song was first transcribed by Walter Fiers, and Microcosmos has used a cover of it called “LISTEX” to treat cheese. The lyric “Becky with the good hair” from Beyonce’s Lemonade may be a reference to this song, and Nicki Minaj referenced it with the lyric (*) “my anaconda don’t want none unless you’ve got Lipopolysaccharide to serve as anchors on the cell wall and begin the lytic cycle, hun.” This song, which appeared on the album Mack Daddy, was used by Alfred Hershey and Martha Chase to show that DNA is genetic material. For 10 points, name this song which says “I like big butts and I cannot lie,” which often infects bacteria.

ANSWER: “Baby got Bacteriophage”

9. In one scene from this opera, a man demands that a woman return his ring and then tramples on it, cursing her to a log-linear relationship between complexity and time. The protagonist of this opera claims to have seen a ghost killed by a jealous man in the aria “Regnava nel polysilicon,” and Alisa interprets this as a warning that the protagonist must give up her love for (*) Edgardo, as current technology is approaching the atomic level and this opera’s main theme will no longer be applicable by around 2025. This opera features a famous aria for coloratura soprano known as the “mad scene,” which is often misquoted as mentioning 18 months due to a comment made by its creator’s colleague at Intel, David House. For 10 points, name this opera based on a Walter Scott novel which claims that chip performance will double every two years, by Gaetano Donizetti.

ANSWER: Lucia di Lammermoore’s Law

10. Abiathar was spared from death due to his association with this group, which later met with Sri Sri Ravi Shankar in Cuba to discuss peace talks. This group once caused hemorrhoids, a plague of mice, and a plague of boils after being placed in the temple of Dagon, and its connection to the IRA was the subject of a House Committee on International Relations investigation in 2002. This group’s founders may include Bezael and Oholiab, as well as the (*) Communist leader Manuel Marulanda Velez. Hugo Chavez called for this group to disarm in 2008, citing its role as the physical manifestation of God on the Earth. This group known for kidnappings like that of Oscar Tulio Lizcano was itself captured by the Philistines, the news of which caused Eli to die in shock and inspired the name Ichabod, meaning “The glory has departed Israel.” For 10 points, name this Colombian terrorist organization which contained Aaron’s rod and the Ten Commandments.

ANSWER: FARC of the covenant

11. The music video for this song shows “Captain” Lou Albano playing the singer’s lover, and in an homage to A Night at the Opera, the singer reads an essay supporting Fidel Castro. According to studies by Masuda and Nisbett, this song may be more popular in the United States than Japan due to the former’s cultural focus on individualism. The opening to this song describes the singer’s mother asking her when she’s “going to live [her] life right” after she returns home early in the morning, as the mother is (*) blaming her lateness on a personality flaw rather than putting it into the context of her night. Although this song was first recorded by Lee Ross and Robert Hazard, it is better known for a cover by Cyndi Lauper. For 10 points, name this song which claims that young women only desire to overestimate the importance of internal factors on behavior.

ANSWER: “Girls Just Want to Have Fundamental Attribution Error”

12. Portuguese Nanban ships were the main source of trade for this government, and it later permitted “red seal ships” after arguing that the decision in United States v. Rybar was flawed because a law banning submachine guns was outside the authority of the Commerce Clause. This government supported a spousal notification requirement for abortion in Planned Parenthood v. Casey, although it did end its (*) isolationist policy of sakoku later in its rule. After a regime change sanctioned by Bush v. Gore began the Edo period, this government was appointed to its highest position following the retirement of Sandra Day O’Connor, replacing the previous nominee, Harriet Miers. For 10 points, name this government which ruled Japan between 1603 and 1867 until the Meiji Restoration, a conservative Italian Supreme Court justice.

ANSWER: the Samuel Alitokugawa Shogunate

13. A British man on crutches in this film named Tucker is revealed to be an able-bodied American delivery boy who has been slandering rival suitors, such as by claiming that a French poet who hid under the central woman’s bed to confess his love was actually part of a Huguenot plot. While the titular woman of this film became engaged with the (*) Treaty of Greenwich, she is fought over by men like “Woogie,” an old boyfriend, while she tries unsuccessfully to arrange a marriage with Don Carlos. The mysterious “Brett” in this film is revealed to be football player Brett Favre, whom the title woman dates after the suspicious death of her first husband, Lord Darnley. At the end of this film, Ted watches tearfully as the protagonist is put to death at Fotheringay following her implication in the Babington Plot against Elizabeth I. For 10 points, name this historical romcom starring Ben Stiller and Cameron Diaz about an entrancing Queen of Scotland.

ANSWER: There’s Something About Mary, Queen of Scots

14. The protagonist of this work delivers a message that “he is gone South for the week,” referring to a couple’s trip back to their Welsh hometown, where daily “Bible sessions” at the local bar feature former members of a squash club like Peter Thomas and Charlie Norris, who have mixed feelings about Alun Weaver’s return. A (*) “Contrack” in this work prohibits women or liquor, as one character once burnt and then cut up a bedsheet after drinking too much, and on another occasion gave a speech while extremely drunk where he accidentally impersonated his department chair. While one character in this story is killed after a girl bites his ear and proves him mortal, he is survived by his son, the author of Time’s Arrow. For 10 points, name this Rudyard Kipling novella about Daniel Dravot, who attempts to be the author of The Old Devils and Lucky Jim.

ANSWER: The Man Who Would Be Kingsley Amis

15. This woman almost executed her daughter while she was disguised as a boy named “Fidele,” which she did to preserve her love for Posthumus and avoid the scheming Iachimo. In The Fountain, she appears in a public fountain brushing her teeth while wearing a bikini, which shocked many viewers due to her treatment of the ambassador Caius Lucius. She received critical support for the semi-autobiographical film (*) Tiny Furniture, where she played a recent college graduate named Aura who develops a relationship with Keith and discovers that Belarius has not killed her sons, Guiderius and Arvirargus. This woman is best known for a show on HBO that follows the lives of four young women in New York City, where she plays an aspiring writer named Hannah who eventually agrees to pay tribute to Rome. For 10 points, name this creator of the show “Girls,” who titles a Shakespearean drama about an ancient King of Britain.

ANSWER: Cymbelena Dunham

16. This film’s plot is based off of The Human Voice by Jean Cocteau, in which a man reads the girl he loves Schiller’s Mary Stuart at a picnic under the guise of teaching her German. One character in this film accidentally drinks gazpacho that has been spiked with sleeping pills, which damages her constitution so much that she is unable to tend to her doll hospital or play her beloved piano. That woman lives in a “prison-house of pain” in a poem by her sister, who realizes that she has accidentally been harboring a () Shiite terrorist cell which hopes to hijack a flight to Stockholm and divert it to Vevey. Lucia is released from a mental hospital near the end of this film, while Pepa desperately tries to tell Ivan that she has married Mr. (*) Bhaer. For 10 points, name this film directed by Pedro Almodovar about the anxiety-filled life of the March sisters.

ANSWER: Little Women on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown

17. One character in this novel writes The Transfiguration of the Commonplace after changing her name to Sister Helena of the Transfiguration, which describes how a “twister” or the Generalized Shift Register generate random numbers. The eponymous figure of this novel flirts with Edouard Lucas and Ivan Mikheevich Pervushin, who also help search for a man who (*) “joyfully” exposed himself by the Water of Leith, and defend the title character from Miss Mackay's opposition. The title character intends Rose to prove the Lenstra-Pomerance-Wagstaff conjecture, but the task is instead taken up by Sandy. For 10 points, name this book about a teacher who manipulates a group of girls into admiring fascism and primes that are one less than a power of two, by Muriel Spark.

ANSWER: The Mersenne Prime of Miss Jean Brodie

18. The central concept of this school was first proposed by Christian von Ehrenfels, who laid out its main tenets in a painting of a massive army with blue mountains and water in the background and white text in a gold frame floating at the top. That painting by an artist who also depicted a Dalmatian in the "dog picture" shows the blue-clad soldiers of Kurt Koffka and Wolfgang Kohler, who studied under Carl Stumpf, and this school also laid out its principles of totality and psychophysical isomorphism in (*) woodcuts for the Triumphs of Maximilian and the Nativity of the Virgin. Members of this school included the "Little Masters," and its key principles were multistability, reification, emergence, and invariance. For 10 points, name this Renaissance German school of psychology that argued that the whole mind has a reality other than the sum of its parts and which painted The Battle of Alexander at Issus.

ANSWER: Gestaltdorfer

19. One character in this play is offered poisoned wine by Hippolita at a wedding feast, and he thinks he is going mad because his glass is empty despite having no recollection of drinking from it. A "superb three-mast" boat in this play brings Richardetto to Parma to join his niece Philotis, and Soranzo waves to the ship without realizing that by doing so, he is inviting the murderous intentions of the protagonist, who is jealous of Soranzo's courting of (*) his sister and kneels on his chest in his sleep. Charlotte Mandell suggests that one word in this play's title may be a portmanteau for the French words "outside" and "there," and its title is said in full at the end of the play by a cardinal who demands that Putana be burnt at the stake for encouraging Annabella's immoral affair. For 10 points, name this play in which Giovanni's incestuous relationship with his sister leads to nightmares about being haunted by the titular vampire, by John Ford de Maupassant.

ANSWER: 'Tis pity she's a horla

20. One verse in this song claims that "this world is mine for the taking" and says "make me king / as we move toward a / transcendental empiricism / a normal life is borin but super stardom's close to post mortem." It explores the title figure's struggle to understand the nature of reality while balancing being a "father and a prima donna," and concludes that "success is my only motherfucking option" due to the regimentation of () "desiring-production" in modern capitalism. This song's chorus of "you better never let it go / you only get one shot" refers to its subject's analysis of repetition versus generality in the book (*) Difference and Repetition, while early descriptions of "vomit on his sweater already, mom's spaghetti" juxtaposes disgust and the mother in a reference to the subject's most famous work, which argues that the Oedipal complex must be re-examined through the lens of familial colonization and repression. For 10 points, name this rap song about the philosopher who collaborated with Felix Guattari on Capitalism and Schizophrenia: Anti-Oedipus, by Eminem.

ANSWER: "Deleuze Yourself"

21. The initial release of this language contained 32 statements, including substance-accident distinctions and three-way arithmetic IF statements. It was based on work done in Corinthians 10:11, and the "Astronomy vs. Gastroenterology" debate centering around the usage of asterisks versus colons was resolved at the Fourth Lateran Council and the Council of Trent. This language was originally met with skepticism, and Martin Luther argued in "On the Babylonian Captivity of the Church" that it would never successfully replace (*) hand-coding. While this language is seen as old-fashioned despite recently released revisions like its "2008" standard, it is still used by the Catholic and Eastern Orthodox Churches, while the Protestant Church has replaced it with sacramental union. For 10 points, name this early programming language developed by John Backus at IBM, which can be used to turn the bread and wine of the Eucharist into the literal body and blood of Christ.

ANSWER: Fortransubstantiation

22. This book describes the author's time at Punahou School, where he proposed the "phenomenon of condensation," arguing that a single image or symbol may hold multiple meanings. The author of this book suggested to Wilhelm Fliess that posterity would erect a marble tablet to honor where it was first written, and it describes encounters with Dr. M and Anna O at (*) Occidental College. The Oedipal complex was first described in this book, in which the author discusses his complex relationship with his namesake and how it led him to visit Kenya before enrolling in Harvard Law School. The author worked as a community organizer on Chicago's South Side, where he developed the theory that the titular entities are a form of wish fulfillment. For ten points, name this psychoanalytic memoir by Barack Obama.

ANSWER: On the Interpretation of Dreams From my Father

23. This work, written at the Villa Senar, was first performed by the Philadelphia Orchestra, conducted by Roy Thomas Baker, at the Lyric Night at the Opera House. Though it's not the Eroica, this piece unusually begins with a variation before the main theme, and its lyrics may have been inspired by Turiddu's aria from Cavalleria rusticana, "Mamma, appena ucciso un uomo." The piano plays the Dies Irae accompanied by the orchestra which plays the opening motif a (*) little high, little low, and the final variation in this piece has such a difficult piano part that its composer had a drink before performing it at the premiere, leading to it being called the "Creme de Menthe Fandango." Drums and timpani in this piece imitate thunder and lightning in a section dedicated to Galileo which uses leitmotifs from the Marriage of Figaro. It is primarily based, however, on the 24th violin caprice by the composer of "Don't Stop Me Now" and "We Will Rock You." For 10 points, name this piece for solo piano and orchestra by Sergei Rachmaninoff, the lead singer of Queen.

ANSWER: "Bohemian Rhapsody on a Theme of Paganini"

24. This deity is invoked in the Cutthroat Kitchen episode "Tso Good" by contestant Matthew Grunwald after serving carrot cake topped with bacon, leading the judge to comment that she doesn't need the reference to be explained because she has a twelve year old with a deep connection to Akamara. This deity inspired the Johann Strauss waltz "Man lebt nur einmal," which depicts this deity breathing life into men created after another god (*) climbed down to the earth on a golden chain with a snail's shell of sand, a hen, a black cat, and a pine nut. He is served by Obatala and Eshu, and he titled a planned mixtape by Drake and Rick Ross. This deity originally created men to be immortal, but after the world filled up with old people he was begged to create death and let humans only live once. For 10 points, name this hashtag-friendly chief god of the Yoruba pantheon.

ANSWER: #yolodumare [or yolorun]

25. The top left of this painting shows a gap through trees and boulders through which a rocky shoreline is visible, and it depicts the events of Laylat al-Qadr. An angel on the bottom right is pointing toward the infant Yahya ibn Zakariya, and is wearing alternately a red or blue cape depending on the version, one being found in the Louvre and the other in the National Gallery of Mecca. The central figure of this painting wears a blue and gold dress and reaches her hand toward a child who holds (*) three dates in reference to the iftar of Muhammad after the Quran was revealed to him. This painting commissioned for the altarpiece of the Chapel of the Immaculate Conception was completed on Eid al-Fitr. For 10 points, name this painting depicting the Virgin Mary participating in an Islamic month of fasting, by Leonardo da Vinci.

ANSWER: Ramadonna of the Rocks

26. The protagonist of this book mistakenly believes that a priest in a confessional booth is actually God, and says "I am sorry" before rushing out of the church in tears. Her central group of friends is known as the Four PTS's, who complain that their parents are restricting their allowances and discuss their periods, bras, and the practice of (*) moetolo, or "sleep-crawling." The protagonist's best friend, Nancy Benedict, encourages her to study female-dominant cultures in the Tchambuli Lake region of Papua New Guinea, and dates Nancy's friend Edward Sapir before falling in love while playing "Two Minutes in the Closet" with Gregory Bateson. This book has been challenged for "anti-Christian" themes and its overly loose view of sexual norms by Derek Freeman. For 10 points, name this young adult novel about a girl who grows up to study the sexual development of young women in Samoa, by Judy Blume.

ANSWER: Are You There, God? It's Me, Margaret Mead

27. This book claims that it is a "moral prejudice" that truth is worth more than appearances, arguing that the abolition of appearances would render useless matching 500-count sheet sets and semi-sheer shower curtains. This book mockingly calls Kant "the great Wedgwood Chinaman of Koningsberg" and criticizes philosophers for dogmatism while praising "bpa-free spirits" like himself in sections like "On the Prejudices of Philosophers" and "From High Mountains." It claims that religion has been connected to the three dangerous "dietary prescriptions" of solitude, fasting, and sexual abstinence, and advertises a broad collection of silverware and cooking utensils as well as (*) comforters and duvets. For 10 points, name this polemic book which criticizes traditional morality in favor of the will to power and big-box stores that sell everything from pillows to soap dispensers, by Friedrich Nietzsche.

ANSWER: Bed Bath and Beyond Good and Evil

28. The protagonist of this film calls Algernon Charles Swinburne “an inveterate pram-stopper and patter and kisser,” and he flirts with Angelique, a vision of the angel of death. That protagonist takes a daily dose of Vivaldi, Visine, Alka-Seltzer, Dexedrine, and sex to deal with traumatic experiences from his time serving with the Royal Welch Fusiliers. His girlfriend Katie Jagger and his ex-wife Laura Riding try unsuccessfully to convince the protagonist to stop putting himself under so much stress, and at the end of the film progressively wild and hallucinatory dream sequences during his open heart surgery reference scenes from the film he has been editing while simultaneously producing a Broadway musical (), I, Claudius. Siegfried Sassoon complained about his portrayal in this film, which was based off of the director’s experiences editing Lenny on the Western Front. For 10 points, name this semi-autobiographical film about the director’s service in WWI that takes its title from a song from his musical (*) Chicago, By Robert “Bob” Fosse-Graves.

ANSWER: Goodbye to All That Jazz

29. The end of this film asks one protagonist’s love interest where she is now, asking her to get in touch with him if she sees this film. The other protagonist of this film is startled by advances from older women when , Valentin takes her to a gay bar, and after taking mescaline she and another woman drive out to a tomato field during a thunderstorm, eventually ending up at an air force base. Near the end of this film, () Adele attends her former lover’s art exhibition and sees a nude painting done of her when they were still together, although that lover is now happily married to (*) Lilly. This film shocked viewers at Cannes with its long, graphic sex scenes, including an orgy where Moko’s complaints about about being bored lead the participants to rub food over each other. The title of this film refers to a broken shard of glass found by Ryu, which reminds him of the startling color of Emma’s hair. For 10 points, name this controversial lesbian film based on a graphic novel by Julie Maroh, directed by Ryu Murakami.

ANSWER: Almost Transparent Blue is the Warmest Color

30. One character from this play claims that fiction means that “the good ended happily, and the bad have their associates win Nobel Prizes for discovering neutrons based on theories they wrote.” James Chadwick lies about the availability of cucumbers at the market in this play, where the protagonist is told that “to lose one (*) alpha particle is unfortunate but to lose an entire stream of them looks like carelessness.” One character in this play coins the phrases “Bunburying” and “gamma ray,” and it is revealed that he is actually the brother of Algernon Bohr. For 10 points, name this play in which both Cecily Cardew and Gwendolen Fairfax can only love men who share a name with a certain nuclear physicist, by Oscar Wilde.

ANSWER: The Importance of Being Ernest Rutherford

31. “Watch-n-sniff” cards were released with the second season of this show, which allowed viewers to smell specific scents while watching nonempty sets of subsets of a given set X closed under the set operations of union, intersection, and complement relative to X. This show’s pilot was named “This is My Crazy Mathemataical Analysis of Logic,” although its full cast was not introduced until the episode “Big Girls Write An Investigation of the Laws of Thought.” June Shannon has been criticized for giving her daughter (*) “IF-AND-OR” juice, a mixture of Red Bull and Mountain Juice, to energize her before pageants, and she responded to criticism with “I could be giving her alcohol.” For 10 points, name this cancelled TLC spin-off of Toddlers and Tiaras about Alana Thompson, who only has binary truth values of true and false.

ANSWER: Here Comes Honey Boo Boolean Algebra

32. This company was the first to introduce the Cash Management Account, which let customers put all their cash in a money market mutual fund and access “Books of Number” named Mirabell. In 2008, CEO John Thain sent out a press release stating “These days, which lie yourself / seem empty and effaced / will buy back all auction-rate securities from customers with less than $100 million in deposit,” and admitted to being German rather than French in an interview where he solved (*) jigsaw puzzles. Following crashes in the value of its CDO-based portfolio, fears of insolvency drove this company and its partner David Jackson to try and hear “Voices from the Other World” using an ouija board. For 10 points, name this wealth management company which wrote The Changing Light at Sandover and Lost in Translation before being acquired by Bank of America in 2008.

ANSWER: James Merrill Lynch

33. In one scene in this show, Caesar seduces, then captures and crucifies the protagonist of this show, who Callisto brings back to life through the mystic Helenus. In a scene that mirrors the sacrifice of Iphigenia, the Greeks believe that the protagonist of this show must be sacrificed to the warlord Darphus to ensure safe passage home. Gabrielle and Deiphobus fight alongside the protagonist, who leads to the death of (*) Achilles when her chakram is thrown into his heel. In the episode "The Trojan Women," Andromache describes the protagonist's death to the despairing Hecuba, who is heartbroken over the loss of her youngest daughter. For 10 points, name this spin-off of Hercules: The Legendary Journeys where Lucy Lawless plays a combative Trojan.

ANSWER: Polyxena: Warrior Princess

34. The bottom of the word "BILL" in large red letters can be seen in the top left of this painting, referencing its subject's contribution to the National Insurance Act of 1954, which she did as Minister of Labour and a member of the Knesset. This painting was part of an anti-terrorist campaign authorized by its subject called Operation Wrath of God, and the word (*) "CARLO" can be seen in the background in reference to the poet William Carlos Williams. Williams' poem The Great Yom Kippur War provides the title for this painting, and it describes a fire engine on a rainy night in the streets of Tel Aviv. For 10 points, name this painting by Charles DeMuth which uses a former prime minister of Israel to depict a certain number.

ANSWER: I saw the Figure 5 in Golda Meir

35. A secret government agency in this game known only as "United Liberty Paper," forces the protagonist to go after Darko Brevik, who betrayed the protagonist along with Thankmar and Conrad of Lotharingia. In another game in this series, the player is a bodyguard to Anthony "Gay Tony" Prince, who is placed in danger along with (*) Pope John XII. The "Hot Coffee" mod for this game was discovered as part of its unused source code, and it controversially allows the player to have sex with their girlfriend Adelaide. Jack Thompson was disbarred after several attempts to sue this game series, with courts dismissing his claim that this game had caused Devin Moore to shoot a cop due to its graphic depictions of the Battle of Lechfeld. For 10 points, name this open world video game series from Rockstar North that allows the player to steal cars as the first Holy Roman Emperor.

ANSWER: Grand Theft Otto the Great

36. John Maynard Keynes responded to this instruction by saying that he was in "deeply moved agreement," but did not think that it was of practical use because of the presence of dangerous animals like Kalidahs. It is first said to teach a girl how to increase veneration for the state and the admiration of power, in an attempt to make the home of Jinjur and H.M. Woggle-Bug more like Germany. This phrase serves as a guiding point for a man who accidentally chopped off the (*) capitalism of a democratic society that seeks equality through liberty, and he and his companions become distracted by a field of poppies which tempt them away from centralized planning and market constraints. For 10 points, name this command which tells the listener how to reach the Emerald City and learn how National Socialism had its roots in Socialism, said by Friedrich von Hayek.

ANSWER: "Follow the Yellow-Brick-Road to Serfdom"

37. When the protagonist of this work thinks of his lover for the first time in years, his response is "What! Is XBPI still there?" The "curse" on the protagonist's family ends when Groby Glycoprotein tree is cut down, and that protagonist is almost court-martialed for striking a superior officer who ran into his cisternae unannounced. The author of this series said that he regretted writing the last novel, The Last COPI, as the previous novel, A Man Could KDEL, ended with the central lovers dancing and embracing for the first time, although everyone else assumed that they had already completed translation. This series describes the protagonist's struggles fighting in WWI and his rough and smooth relationships with his wife Sylvia and his love Valentine. For 10 points, name this tetralogy about Christopher Tietjens' production of proteins, by Ford Madox Ford.

ANSWER: Parade's Endoplasmic Reticulum

38. Joyous major chords in this piece always come after painful minor ones, and when performed without repeats, the past remains the past. Parts of this song portray the sound of the night as "a clock chiming," in a section that references the Mirabeau Bridge. This piece in C major is a () transposition of the second part of an older work in D major, written for trumpet, timpani, oboe, and strings, and Henri Rousseau painted Marie Laurencin playing it in The Muse Inspiring the Poet. Unlike the piece on which it is based, this piece shifts the part for the first violins down so that it can be performed (*) entirely on Calligrammes in the shape of the Eiffel Tower or birds, and is frequently performed with Alcools. For 10 points, name this poetic French arrangement by August Wilhelmj of the second movement of Bach's Orchestral Suite No. 3.

ANSWER: Apollinaire on the G String

39. In one film, this actor threatens his best friend that he'll kill him if he's still coming over to his house to watch Patriots games in 20 years, saying that the best part of his day is the ten seconds he thinks that "like the fool, the wise man too must die." This actor was widely panned for his performance as a gangster who tries to kidnap Starkman's mentally challenged younger brother by promising to take him "to the Baywatch," with critics complaining that (*) "what has been done will be done again; there is nothing new under the sun." This star of Gigli and former lover of JLo has a last name deriving from a word meaning "teacher," and Guy Montag is tasked with memorizing lines from his films in Fahrenheit 451. For 10 points, name this actor and director nicknamed Kohleth who said "To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven" as Batman in Batman v. Superman.

ANSWER: Ben Affleck

40. One shot in this film nicknamed "the perfect tomato" sees Jess, played by Carrie Fisher, standing on a picnic table with only a tomato in focus. The protagonists of this film repeatedly run into each other on a plane, in a bookstore, and in the Deep South, and they argue about whether or not men and women can just be friends. This film saw controversy over alleged () pedophilia in its depictions of naked children, although it was argued that the nudity was non-sexual and that the only complaints the children had had were Emmett refusing to allow a scene of him with socks on his hands and a shot of Virginia urinating at (*) Katz's delicatessen. That shot took place during a scene where Meg Ryan's faked ecstasy while smoking a candy cigarette causes an old woman to say, "I'll have what she's having." For 10 points, name this romantic comedy by the director of The Princess Bride, At Twelve: Portraits of Young Women, and Immediate Family, Rob Reiner.

ANSWER: When Harry Met Sally Mann

41. This scientist's Master's thesis was about searching for "non-Hubble flow" that would indicate the possibility of a bulk rotation in Camelopard. The second woman to receive the Gold Medal of London's Royal Astronomical Society after Chretien Herschel, her work was influential in developing Gerard de Sitter's theory of a "Local supercluster." After being kidnapped by Meleagant, she went on to complete her PhD at Georgetown under George Gamow, and wrote her thesis about the clumping (*) of galaxies; Along with Lancelot Ford, she discovered an eponymous "effect," a dipole anisotropy in a sample of ScI galaxies, and while at Camelot University she discovered a discrepancy between the predicted and observed angular motion of galaxies that implied that they were much more massive than previously thought. For 10 points, name this astronomer who inspired the theory of dark matter with her work on galaxy rotation curves, which she did while ruling over Camelot as King Arthur's wife.

ANSWER: Guinevere Rubin

42. This speech was originally meant to be delivered at the end of a debate along with one by Benjamin Tillman, but at the speaker's request Tillman instead opened the debate with a speech criticized for its sectionalism. It compared the central issue to the Civil War with phrases like "prime number against prime number, father against son." This speech mocked current president Hardy-Littlewood, who had failed to gain support from the (*) party's delegates. Lev Schnirelmann and Olivier Ramaré provided evidence supporting this speech's free-silver stance, and a "weak" version of this speech given by Harald Helfgott is also known as the "3-primes speech." For 10 points, name this speech given at the 1896 Democratic National Convention by William Jennings Bryan which concludes, "you shall not crucify mankind upon the unproven statement that every even integer greater than 2 can be expressed as the sum of two primes."

ANSWER: "Cross of Goldbach's Conjecture"

43. The "clean" version of one song by this artist contains the lines "To the honeys gettin' money playin nucleotide exchange factors like dummies," as well as the line "I love it when you call me big pathway." He collaborated with Alfred Gilman and Martin Rodbell on songs like "You Can't Stop the Reign" and "Mo Monomeric Alpha Subunits of Heterotrimeric Proteins Mo (*) Problems." Two weeks after this musician was killed in an unsolved drive-by shooting in 1997, Bad Boy Records released his album "Life after Signal Transduction." That album contains the songs "Kick in the Door" and "Ligand Kiss Goodnight," which contains veiled insults toward Tupac Shakur, who he fought with as part of the East Coast - Ras Coast hip hop feud. For 10 points, name this artist born Christopher Wallace who acts as a molecular switch through his ability to bind to GTP, better known as Biggie Smalls.

ANSWER: Notorious B.I.G. protein [or Notorious B.I.G. protein-coupled receptor]

44. This work describes a bank teller and social activist named Linda in an anecdote about how the author was unable to give away a pair of her husband's shoes. In another section, it claims that we evaluate past experiences based on maximum pain or pleasure rather than duration, using the example of the Walter Savage Landor poem "Rose Aylmer." This book discusses how our two conscious and subconscious types of () mental processing can become deranged through grief, and this author had previously reproduced the medical report on her own nervous breakdown in an essay named for a (*) Beatles album. The author of this work had previously described how people use heuristics to evaluate risk based on observations in the Haight-Ashbury district of San Francisco; that description of prospect theory in Slouching Toward Bethlehem won her the 2002 Nobel Prize in Economics. The title of this book refers to the fallacy that hoping for something enough will make it come true, a cognitive bias that the author identified along with Amos Tversky. For 10 points, name this book by Joan Didion about the death of her husband, Daniel Kahneman.

ANSWER: The Year of Magical Thinking, Fast and Slow

45. A wizened old man in this painting hunches over the titular actor, his expression indicating that he's so tight, if you stuck a lump of coal up his ass, in 2 weeks it would turn into a diamond. The right of this painting shows an elderly baboon gesturing toward the title figure with his staff, accompanied by the first pope, who the titular actor played in the 2005 remake of (*) The Producers. Critics are divided as to which man in this picture is actually the eponymous actor, as he could be either the young man slouched over at the end of the table or the bearded man pointing at himself to indicate that he feels unready to take control of Pride Rock. This painting appears in a series along with ones about its subject's "inspiration," which depicts a character played by him watching a vision of his father Mufasa, as well as one about his "martyrdom." For 10 points, name this painting by Caravaggio in which Jesus reaches out to the star of Ferris Bueller's Day Off.

ANSWER: The Calling of St. Matthew Broderick

46. One character in this work bets Lavater $500 on whether or not a runaway slave will be caught outside Tennie's hut. Along with that story, "On Religious Power," this book features a story where the main character of this work is asked if he's "forgotten ... anything [he] even knew" about love after giving her an envelope full of money and telling her that () Roth has gone away; that character was horrified to learn that his grandfather Carothers had had an incestuous relationship with his mixed-race daughter and slave Tomey which produced Turl, and gives up his inheritance in favor of his cousin, Cass (*) Lessing. One character in this novel inspired the protagonist of Nathan the Wise; that character is a half-Black, half-Indian slave named Sam Fathers who takes Isaac McCaslin to see a "phantom" buck and helps him hunt Old Ben. For 10 points, name this collection of short stories by William Faulkner including "The Bear" and "Delta Autumn," about a Jewish philosopher who translated the Pentateuch into German.

ANSWER: Go Down, Moses Mendelssohn

47. One character in this film joyfully yells out "Toaster strudels!" leading to a rebuke from his bespectacled older brother, voiced by Matthew Gray Gubler, that he should be studying Scripture to gain knowledge of God rather than thinking about food. The protagonists of this film meet at JETT records, where the eponymous character's songwriting has been insulted by Michael Servetus. (*) David Cross plays the villain of this film, an unscrupulous music producer who forces three of the protagonists to perform to exhaustion under the claim that only the elect are predestined to go to Heaven. While the titular character of this film initially means to throw the other protagonists out of his house, their rendition of "Funkytown" convinces him to keep them and write the song The Institutes of the Christian Religion, which becomes a hit despite its strict Protestantism and squeaky register. For 10 points, name this film about a Reformation theologian who adopts a trio of singing rodents in Geneva.

ANSWER: John Calvin and the Chipmunks

48. For values that do not include the knees or the midsection, the constant elasticity of substitution function corresponds to this function when $\gamma = 0$, and its other forms include the Pak Chador and the gulf-style, or "full" version. William Barnett of the Austrian School of Economics has criticized this function on the basis of dimensional analysis, and scholars are divided as to whether it is (*) fard, mustahabb, or urf. The usage of this function has been banned in France, while Reza Shah banned it in 1936 in an attempt at modernization, as it is the oldest aggregate production function. When alpha and beta sum to one, this function has constant returns to scale. For 10 points, name this production function of the form $Y = AK^\alpha L^{1-\alpha}$, which covers the face as part of the hijab.

ANSWER: Niqab-Douglas production function [prompt on “Burqab-Douglas”]

49. Dark planes can be seen at the top left of this work above soldiers in gas masks, while a girl’s tears upon watching the sunset in another part are often mistaken for love until the arrival of Prince N. A headless marble statue sits in front of another group of soldiers on the right side of this work, while a white screen showing a skull on its left refers to the central figure’s impending death within (*) two weeks. The re-created version of this work in the Palacio de Bellas Artes in Mexico City depicts Lizaveta drinking with John D. Rockefeller with a dish of syphilis bacteria over their heads, and is named for the central figure as “controller of the Universe.” This mural was originally intended to be in between The Frontier of Ethical Evolution and The Frontier of Chulkaturin, but was destroyed due to perceived anti-capitalist messages. For 10 points, name this mural based on an Ivan Turgenev novella about a useless man, by Diego Rivera.

ANSWER: Diary of a Superfluous Man at the Crossroads

50. In one scene from this novel, the protagonist’s lover gives her as a birthday present a charm bracelet representing all their “firsts,” including a vertical Phillips curve and an ice cream cone. The end of this novel reveals that the protagonists eventually have two children, Teddy and Phoebe, and have managed to maintain their luxury lifestyle due to smoothing consumption according to the (*) permanent income hypothesis. Jack Hyde wants revenge for losing his job due to rising stagflation in this novel, and the female protagonist is jealous of Elena Lincoln for taking her fiancé’s virginity and introducing him to the free-market lifestyle. This novel, in which Anastasia Stiegler finally marries the titular Chicago school economist, is a sequel to Fiscal Policy Shades Darker. For 10 points, name this final novel in the “Fifty Shades” trilogy about the author of Capitalism and Freedom.

ANSWER: Fifty Shades Friedman

51. A small, thin, double-headed arrow can be seen drawn on a wall on the left side of this painting that is the same length as the flagpole for a narrow red flag in the middle background. The artist’s interest in Charlie Nash’s theory of the eternal recurrence led to a style described as “metaphysical” by Akira Yasuda, and this painting characteristically distorts space by creating two vanishing points, each indicated by a row of (*) arches. A train car is lit by an impossible light source in this painting, and inside can be seen a character called Balrog which was modelled on Mike Tyson. Only two figures appear in this painting: the shadow of what appears to be a statue of Ken, and the silhouette of Ryu running with a children’s toy. For 10 points, name this painting of a Capcom character rolling a hoop, by Giorgio di Chirico.

ANSWER: Mystery and Melancholy of a Street Fighter

52. The protagonist of this book visits two “fearful sites” that he regards with guilt, one of which is a set of marble stairs. During a meeting of the Golden Fleece Debating Society of Osnabrook, Brinker puts the protagonist on “trial”; the chief witness in that trial is Fabio Chigi, who goes insane after fighting in the siege of Prague. This book was challenged in one New York School District for being a “filthy, trashy, Calvinist sex novel” despite featuring no sexual activity, perhaps because of the (*) homoerotic tensions at the central all-boys boarding school, Devon. In the central scene of this book, Gene’s jealousy toward his best friend leads him to make Finny fall out of a tree and break his leg; Finny later dies during an operation to fix his leg conducted by Dr. Mazarin. For 10 points, name this coming-of-age novel by John Knowles about the end of the Thirty Years’ War.

ANSWER: A Separate Peace of Westphalia

53. This song appears at the end of the film Ella Enchanted, where it is covered by Jesse McCartney and Anne Gaunt. One lyric in this song says, “you take the weight off of me” before saying “Honey, when you extend me with the cluster operator / I gave you my key.” The singers claim that “nobody told us” because “nobody showed us there’s an alternative to the (*) Thomas Fermi model,” and that “nobody knows it,” but “when I was solving the energy equation to get a self-consistent field,” “I was your clown.” The title request of this song is met with the reply, “I couldn’t if I tried,” referring to the fact that neither density functional theory nor modern valence bond methods have fully displaced its title method. For 10 points, name this duet by Elton John and Kiki Dee asking the listener not to shatter their “self-consistent” method for calculating the wavefunction of a many-body system.

ANSWER: “Don’t Go Breaking My Hartree-Fock Approximation” [or “Don’t ... Method”]

54. A posthumous work by this thinker attacked V. Kensington's usage of "sense-data" in The Foundations of Empirical Knowledge, arguing that she was failing to note the complex ways in which people use words like "real." In the introduction to Ideology, Terry Eagleton uses this thinker's main theoretical framework to examine Basil Exposition's description of ideology as that which expresses a will rather than describing a reality. After regaining his (*) "mojo" and being appointed Professor of Moral Philosophy at Oxford, this thinker was forced to fight off an army of fembots by doing a strip tease that makes their heads explode. In his most famous work, he distinguished between "constative," descriptive utterances like "Groovy, baby!" and "performative" ones like making a promise to get sharks with "frickin' laser beams" attached to their heads. For 10 points, name this "international man of mystery," a British philosopher who wrote How to Do Things With Words.
ANSWER: John Langshaw Austin Powers

55. This work claims that "form excludes content," and its own form ends with a tarantella in order to portray desperation. This work, which has extreme shifts between fortissimo and pianissimo, points out that the first fifteen presidents would have been easily recognizable by their writings rather than their appearance, while the syncopated, more frenetic nature of today's society makes the opposite true. This book, reworked from an earlier (*) lied by its author for voice and piano, uses that song's theme as a basis for five variations in its Andante con moto second movement, which decries the "talking hairdos" of modern news media. It claims that "the medium is the metaphor," drawing from Marshall McLuhan and Matthias Claudius. For 10 points, name this book for string quartet that claims that television is modern society's "soma," by Neil Schubert.
ANSWER: Amusing Ourselves to Death and the Maiden

56. This work begins with the protagonist hearing a rumor on the street that the fire in his heart is out, started by his brother-in-law and Illo. The original frontispiece for this work shows a picture of a hand holding a picture frame through which can be seen a gaunt woman, perhaps in reference to the protagonist's daughter, Thekla, who dies of grief after all the roads she has to walk are winding and all the lights that lead her there are blinding on her way to the grave of her lover, Max (*) Piccolomini, who isn't gonna be the one that saves the eponymous protagonist due to loyalty to his father Octavio. This trilogy, containing plays about its subject's "Camp" and "Death" reaches its climax on the day that's gonna be the day that the Holy Roman Emperor throws it back to the titular prince for perceived treason. For 10 points, name this trilogy of plays about a Bohemian general by Friedrich Schiller, the lead singer of Oasis, which is popular with amateur guitarists everywhere.
ANSWER: Wonderwallenstein [accept "anyway, here's Wonderwallenstein"]

57. The New York Times described one of this artist's designs as "a comforting reminder of the civilizing function of navigation rights on the Mississippi River in a barbaric age," perhaps because it allayed fears of a US-British alliance. That building by this architect includes wall insulation made with denim and a green roof inspired by the nearby Nob and (*) Chattahoochee Hills. With Richard Pinckney and Gianfranco Manuel de Godoy, he designed a building which now houses El Escorial Calder's Horizontal and has steel beams and pipes on its outside, while his more recent projects include the tallest, "pointiest" building in West Florida. For 10 points, name this architect of le Centre Pompidou and the Shard, who established "friendship, limits, and navigation" between Spain and the United States.
ANSWER: Treaty of San Lorenzo Piano

58. One character in this film is described as the kind of girl for whom "the ringing of a phone dropped exactly nothing," and her self-absorbed nature is emphasized when she becomes furious with one protagonist for stealing the show during a performance of "The Sign." Another character in this film is jealous of "three and a half" year old (*) Sharon Lipshutz and is rebuked for her treatment of a dog, and she auditions for the Barden Bellas using the song "Cups." At the end of this film, after winning the national a cappella competition and returning to his hotel room, the protagonist shoots himself in the head. For 10 points, name this film starring Anna Kendrick about Sibyl Carpenter and Seymour Glass, directed by J.D. Salinger.
ANSWER: A Pitch Perfect Day for Bananafish

59. One woman in this section of a larger work claims that she has never had servants who weren't devils, and chooses to become 27 instead of 77. Another character in this gram-negative section protests that her father will be upset upon looking down from heaven to see her giving the carbon urea breath test to his murderer, to which she gets the reply that her father would be upset at it being called a murder, since he had a higher risk of developing inflammation of the (*) pyloric antrum, but experienced only dyspepsia. The main role in this act, who converses with a former lover and a statue, is meant to be played by the same actor who plays Jack Tanner, while the role of Doña Ana is meant to be played by the actress of Robin Warren. For 10 points, name this third act of Shaw's Man and Superman which can cause gastritis or peptic ulcers.

ANSWER: Don Juan in Helicobacter Pylori

60. In one scene from this poem, characters pour libations to Sthenelus in an attempt to locate a tan Sierra. The protagonist's husband is proud that his depiction of Phineus being rescued from harpies will be put on a stamp, and another character tries plow the Plain of Ares in order to hide a fraudulent GMAC loan that he paid for using nonexistent (*) cars. In book 3 of this poem, Athena asks Hera to do all the talking to a pair of prostitutes because she's conscious about her role as a virgin goddess, and the two are told that a man they're looking for is uncircumcised and "kinda funny looking." While driving by the clashing rocks, the protagonist discovers Medea feeding her half-brother Apsyrtus into a wood-chipper. For 10 points, name this epic poem written by Apollonius of Rhodes about Marge Gunderson's attempts to retrieve the Golden Fleece.

ANSWER: The Fargonautica

61. In one scene, this character calls someone "Kamal ... no, Buggins —" before being interrupted with, "It's Cadwallader!" After the police raid the brothel where she is staying, this character is forced to flee to Shell Cottage, and she goes on the run again after Zulema commits suicide, leaving the home of Zulema's husband, (*) Riad Hilabi. While fans expected this character to end up with Huberto Longbottom, it was revealed that she eventually marries Rolf. This character can see Thestrals because she watched her mother Consuelo die while eating a chicken bone, leaving her to survive in an unnamed South American country alone with her father Xenophilius. For 10 points, name this offbeat Ravenclaw and reader of the Quibbler who titles a novel by Isabel Allende.

ANSWER: Eva Luna Lovegood [here's a fun bonus: their respective men actually ARE both named Rolf]

62. One character in this musical hexes a house by leaving knots of twine in it, leading Crutchie to be beaten and taken to Warden Snyder's "refuge." Another character in this musical dreams of moving to Santa Fe but is forced to pick up his daughters Bunny and Sunshine from the pornographer his wife had sold them to. A Deux Ex Machina at the end of this show, which takes inspiration from (*) The Ashley Book of Knots, has Teddy Roosevelt swoop in after being sent for by the protagonist and Katherine Prowse, bringing the drowned Jack Buggit back to life. That protagonist, a correspondent for The Gammy Bird, leads a strike against Joseph Pulitzer after the death of his parents and wife bring him to return to his ancestral Canadian home. For 10 points, name this musical in which Quoyle moves to Newfoundland to sell papers, by Annie Proulx.

ANSWER: The Shipping Newsies

63. Taking its name from a line of Rupert Brooke's Tiare Tahiti, this novel ends with the line "I know myself, but everybody's looking for something." Its protagonist is told that he's more of a "personage" than a "personality," meaning that he wants to abuse you rather than be abused. The death of Dick Humbird sobers this protagonist, who is told to "keep your head up, moving on" by (*) Isabelle Borgé; their relationship does not last, however, and he falls in love with the sister of his friend Alec, Rosalind Connage, but after she chooses to marry a wealthier man, he falls into a drunken haze and travels the world and the seven seas, looking for something. This novel written to impress Zelda Sayre responds to its title with "Who am I to disagree?" For 10 points, name this semi-autobiographical novel about Princeton student Amory Blaine, by Eurythmics.

ANSWER: Sweet Dreams are Made of This Side of Paradise

64. The titular group of this song claims to have "no lead in our zeppelin," being instead carried by the pallor of girls' brows. In another part of this song, the "shrill, demented choirs of wailing shells" and "bugles calling for them from sad shires" play behind the lines "Booty move the weight like she owns the block / where I drank I gots to know." The music video for this song shows a man in an Atlanta Braves cap running from a mob of zombie-like dancers, who hold candles in their eyes rather than their hands to shine the (*) holy glimmers of goodbyes. Redfoo and SkyBlu ring passing-bells for those who die as cattle in this song while a low voice sings, "Every day I'm shuffling in the trenches of the Somme." For 10 points, name this song that orders that "everybody just have a good good good time" despite the fact that they're being killed senselessly in WWI, a collaboration between LMFAO and Wilfred Owen.

ANSWER: Party Rock Anthem for Doomed Youth

65. In a film from this franchise, the protagonist says, “You know, hope is a mistake. If you can’t follow every molecule in its course, you’ll, uh you’ll go insane.” That protagonist calls himself “the one who runs from both the living and Landauer’s principle” before catching and eating a live Slizard engine. In another film from this franchise, Johnny is forced to saw through either a pair of handcuffs or his ankle to escape a makeshift car bomb, and the death of the protagonist’s wife Jessie and infant son Charles Bennett cause him to go insane. In a recent film from this franchise, a man who discovers the words “WE ARE NOT (*) THERMODYNAMICS” written on the wall warns people not to get addicted to water and leads the War Boys into battle. That 2015 film from this franchise stars Tom Hardy and Charlize Theron, who sort hot fast molecules into one chamber and slow ones into the other. For 10 points, name this film franchise set in a post-apocalyptic wasteland about a hypothetical decrease in entropy.

ANSWER: Mad Maxwell’s Demon

66. The protagonist of this work thinks that he is an instrument of God, which he shows by removing the claws of a stuffed armadillo that used to make it talk. That protagonist has his six string in hock, and he dates the protagonist’s much older sister, a girl who works at the diner all day named Hester. The protagonist’s father in this work thinks that his child was created through immaculate conception, since he and the protagonist’s mother never had each other, and that’s a lot for love. The protagonist of this novel used to (*) work on the dock, but after his union goes on strike, he goes to Vietnam and saves several children from being killed by Tommy’s bomb. For 10 points, name this novel narrated by John Wheelwright about the titular New Hampshire boy, by Jon Bon Jovi Irving.

ANSWER: Living on a Prayer for Owen Meany

67. In 2014, this actor appeared in the $250 million dollar film McLane Stadium, following appearances in Out of the Furnace and American Hustle. In another film, this actor played an introverted doctor with a glass eye who plays the drums to let out his frustration over the murder of Patrick Dennehy, and he fires Guy Morriss after a disappointing record in 2006. This actor who played Laurie in Little Women and starred in Newsies played a pair of identical twin (*) magicians who pull an upset victory over #1 ranked Kansas State in 2012, and he is perhaps best known for playing quarterback Robert Lee Griffin III in a superhero trilogy directed by Christopher Nolan. For 10 points, name this actor who, in addition to starring in films like The Dark Knight, is a university in Waco whose mascot is the Bears.

ANSWER: Christian Baylor

68. One song from this album opens with a sample from Pastor T.L. Barrett, who repeats the phrase “plata o plomo,” or “silver or lead.” That song from this album repeats the refrain “I want to be liberated,” referencing an attack by M-19 that burnt files on Los Extraditables. In another song from this album whose first track is “Padre stretch my hands,” Chance the Rapper tells the singer “When (*) Los Pepes come for you, I will shield your name,” referring to the hunt for this album’s central figure after his escape from La Catedral. This album, which contains tracks like “Ultralight Beam” and “Wolves,” was launched exclusively for Tidal, and some of its profits were used to construct soccer fields in Medellin. For 10 points, name this album by Kanye West about a notorious Colombian drug lord.

ANSWER: The Life of Pablo Escobar

69. Karl Marx wrote that attempts to repeal this set of laws promised “not only a Big Loaf (which was to be doubled in size) but also the funding of the Choo Choo Shoe. Richard Cobden fought against this piece of legislation, which he said created a “mecca of love,” and warned that people supporting it would be covered in splinters. Cobden’s protests were met with numerous response of “We’re on a bridge, Richard,” and these laws were eventually (*) repealed by the first Liopleurodon to serve in Parliament. The repeal of these laws caused the lowering of grain prices, after which the British public awoke to find that their kidneys had been stolen. For 10 points, name this set of legislation restricting tariffs on the titular good exported from Candy Mountain.

ANSWER: Charlie the Unicorn laws

71. Rolling Stone called the video for this song “perfect insanity,” praising the depiction of the abusive Ed, whose ex-girlfriend defends him by claiming that his abuse was how he showed the title concept. Several times in that video for this song, dancing causes people to break through the floor into the apartment below, interrupting a conversation between two couples seated around a bottle of gin. In this story, (*) Mel calls for another round of shots before talking about the time he met an old couple who had been in a car accident, and how the husband's greatest sadness was that he could not see his wife through his eye-holes. For 10 points, name this song by DJ Snake and Lil Jon that titles a short story collection by Raymond Carver.

ANSWER: "Turn Down for What We Talk About When We Talk About Love"

72. A character in this film is horrified to find out that gelato isn't vegan, since he believes that he inherited his character and powers from his vegan father and his intellect from his mother. This film contains attacks on the contemporaries Fichte and Schelling, and Crash and the Boys play a song for them titled "We Hate You, Please Die." Richard Aquila argues that watchers of this film must analyse what the word (*)

Vorstellung translates to in Canadian, and it shows its directors belief that suicide is not substantially destructive via a confrontation between the protagonist and his "nega" version. For 10 points, name this film based on a comic book in which the titular protagonist has to fight Ramona Flowers' seven evil exes in order to transcend egoism and join the great Will of the thing-in-itself, directed by Edgar Schopenhauer.

ANSWER: Scott Pilgrim vs. the World as Will and Representation

73. A character in this show becomes engaged to Prince Louis Grimaldi in Paris, and he gives her a yellow headscarf that drapes down over the back of her neck. That character eventually ends up with Chuck Bass, who wraps a blue scarf around the top of her head like a turban. The background of this show was originally supposed to be a deep enamel green to contrast with the central character's mustard-yellow dress, but after a five-year timeskip showing the wedding of (*) Serena van der Woodsen, the pigments have faded to black. The enigmatic central character of this show was speculated to be the servant girl Griet in a novel by Tracy Chevalier that was turned into a film starring Scarlett Johansson, but it is eventually revealed that it's actually Dan Humphrey who has been leaving enigmatic notes signed with xoxo. For 10 points, name this CW teen drama based on a painting by Vermeer.

ANSWER: Gossip Girl with a Pearl Earring

74. This work is dedicated to the Archduke Rudolf, who helped settle the subject's "beef" with Vanilla Ice on the Arsenio Hall show. This piece's Allegro first section opens with a series of fortissimo B flat major chords, referencing the composer's previous work Too Legit to Quit. This piece is considered one of its composers hardest for the titular (*) instrument, and its commonly known title comes from its composer's penchant for using German rather than Italian to name his pieces. This work is based off of a theme from the composer's "Du kannst das nicht anfassen." For 10 points, name this Beethoven piano sonata about the composer of "U Can't Touch This."

ANSWER: M.C. Hammerklavier

75. One song on this album describes a girl who is leaving home after living alone for so many years while standing behind a blue Chinese vase with one of her sisters. The sound of a crowing rooster owned by Paul Cesar Helleu opens another track on this album, and its cover depicts a twirling woman lifting her white skirt next to Aubrey Beardsley and Dylan Thomas. A controversial song on this album was changed after claims that a loose shoulder strap was painted under the influence of (*) LSD. The last song on this album opens with the narrator reading in the newspaper about the daughters of Edward Darley Boit, who blew his mind out in a car and didn't notice that the red lights had changed; that song is "A Day in the Life of El Jaleo." For 10 points, name this seminal 1967 album by the Beatles about the artist of Madame X.

ANSWER: John Singer Sargent Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band

76. A baby boy in this movie is turned into a mouse, representing its authors desire to move from "love of knowledge" – philosophy – to actual knowledge. A character in this film is fed a dumpling given by a 'stink spirit' that causes him to vomit up a black slug; the protagonist crushes the seal with her foot, thus freeing him from the (*) master-slave dialectic. In this film, the witch Yubaba employs the protagonist after her parents are turned into pigs, and the protagonist's name change to Sen and back represent the thesis-antithesis-synthesis dialectic. For 10 points, name this studio Ghibli film about Chihiro, directed by Georg Hegel.

ANSWER: The Phenomenology of Spirited Away

77. One character in this work reminisces about her childhood, saying that people "did right then" and didn't go around trying to touch butts. One character in this work repeatedly fails to tell a joke about a mollusk, and he hides his cat in a basket underneath the car he shares with his forgetful companion. That companion notably knows how to read, and she shows him an article in the Atlanta Journal Constitution about a dentist, leading them to go to (*) Sydney, Florida. The entrance of the antagonist of this work is announced with three “Psycho” scare chords, and he repeatedly shakes the protagonist’s son in a plastic bag before shooting Bailey and John Wesley. A character in this work who tells herself to “just keep swimming” tells the antagonist that “you’re one of my own children!” after which he kills her. For 10 points, name this Pixar film about a clownfish, based on a short story by Flannery O’Connor.

ANSWER: “A Good Man is Hard to Finding Nemo”

78. A lawyer in this film says “Ma’am, I was already a bloodsucking parasite – all I need is a bench in Central Park!” The protagonist of this film gives orders for a sniper to shoot Winnie the Pooh after it’s revealed that he had an affair with Tobias, and that protagonist is asked “Are you her little bedbug?” during a cross-examination section called “Get the Guests.” This film opens with a claim that “according to all known laws of aviation,” a (*) delicate balance can’t withstand the intrusion of two family friends. In this movie, an author who wrote about Jerry’s suicide in The Zoo Story sues the entire human race for stealing his wife Honey, and has a relationship with the florist Vanessa Bloom, voiced by Rene Zellweger. For 10 points, name this film about the author of Who’s Afraid of Virginia Woolf?, starring Jerry Seinfeld.

ANSWER: Edward Albee Movie

79. This character can cause a sudden chill to appear, and she rides a horse named Craven. It is later revealed that this character is actually the ghost of a cursed human, who gains an unblinking third eye in her Mega form after training at the House of Black and White. This character goes blind after drinking milk and learns from the (*) Ecruteak City Gym Leader, the waif. Seeking revenge for her murdered family, this character vows to use Hex and Payback on people like Meryn Trant and Cersei Lannister. For 10 points, name this youngest daughter of Ned Stark, the final evolution of Gastly.

ANSWER: Gengarva Stark

80. After a character in this work nearly faints during biology class, she has flashbacks to the death of her Confederate grandfather, who was killed while stealing chickens. A character in this work is furious after preparing a salad to learn that the protagonist has already eaten, since she resents Joanna Burden’s family for being carpetbaggers. The protagonist of this work moves from (*) Phoenix to the cold and rainy Jefferson in search of the father of her unborn child, and she is caught in a love triangle between the brooding vampire Joe Brown and the devoted werewolf Byron Bunch. For 10 points, name this novel about Isalena Swann-Grove and the possible murderer Joe Christmas, by Stephanie Faulkner.

ANSWER: Twilight in August

81. One member of this family ruled during the First Stadtholderless Period, and quarreled with his sister as they tried to retrieve a mammoth bone flute from among Cro-Magnons. Two members of this family work with the enchanted dog Teddy to revolt against Spanish rule, and its Royal Coat of Arms displays the phrase “Je Maintiendrai,” and several lions surrounding the letter M. Two members of this family went to England to inspire King Arthur in his fight against Mordred, and a prince of this family defeated Louis XIV of France after marrying his cousin (*) Morgan le Stuart and deposing her father, James II. For 10 points, name this Dutch Royal house that frequently used an arborial structure to travel through time and space.

ANSWER: Magic Tree House of Orange – [or House of Orange-Nassau or House of Nassau]

82. This thinker compared the unity between the body and the soul to marriage, saying “open up and there it goes, your body is your wife.” He advised that people who wanna win the game gotta take good aim to end up in the heavenly city ruled by love, and this thinker was the first proponent of amillennialism, which says that Lizzie and Henry will not actually have thousand-year reigns on the earth. This author of The () City of Conga* published a purple, orange, green, and yellow manuscript where he talked about stealing fruit as a child by extending his head forward and pulling them back with his mouth. For 10 points, name this Christian author of the Confessions, who fed small white marbles to a “river horse.”

ANSWER: Augustine of Hungry Hungry Hippos

83. This club made its first successful defense of a knockout club competition by defeating Aston Villa 2-1 in 2010, but it came under fire for causing the death of an animal described as “fit as a fiddle.” This team held responsible for the death of Simon had previously experienced another public relations fiasco when it was revealed that Tommy Docherty had had an affair with the team physiotherapist’s wife, which the team justified by arguing that the physiotherapist was a “pass” employee who therefore had to meet stricter standards of appropriate dress. This team has a rivalry with (*) Leeds that stems from the Wars of the Roses, and it was involved in the death of a giant rabbit in the 1958 Munich air disaster. More recently, this team's manager Jose Mourinho was lambasted for his insensitive response to the violent removal of a Vietnamese doctor from an overbooked flight. For 10 points, name this British soccer club nicknamed the Red Devils which also operates a major American airline.

ANSWER: Manchester United Airlines

84. The protagonist of this play endorsed a carbon tax as “the most efficient means of reflecting the cost of carbon,” although the New York Times has suggested that this was just a ploy to avoid cap-and-plague legislation. The protagonist’s wife in this play comforts him that prophets aren’t always true, since rumors that John Bolton would fill this man’s role never came to fruit. The protagonist of this play promises to counteract Corinthian aggression with military action, if necessary, and critics mock him for being “tired” after he refuses to meet with (*) Tiresias. This play ends with the maxim that no man should be considered fortunate until he is dead, since even a multi-millionaire diplomat can be investigated for breaking sanctions against Russia. For 10 points, name this first play in Sophocles’ Texan trilogy, about a Secretary of State who ends up killing his father and marrying his mother.

ANSWER: Oedipus Rex Tillerson

85. Some fans were crushed over revelations that one character in this work has a girlfriend named Emily, since they didn’t want to think that The Comedian’s daughter was a lesbian. A character in this work says to “never accept the world as it appears to be,” but to bury the notion of the ordinary person. One joke in this work is about the depressed clown Pagliacci, who travels between Ilios, Dorado, and Nepal filling roles like Defense, Tank, and Support. The “badass creed” in this game suggests that the world is “a clock without a craftsman,” and one character in this graphic novel responds to (*) Gabriel Reyes’ betrayal by saying that “all the whores and politicians will look up and shout, SAVE US! And I’ll look down and whisper, “Move the payload!” That character, originally named Jon Osterman, is turned into a powerful blue being after the Omnic Crisis led to the creation of the namesake elite combat group. For 10 points, name this comic co-produced by Blizzard Entertainment and Alan Moore.

ANSWER: Overwatchmen

86. This ruler supposedly was brought to the king’s attention as a child when he ordered a nobleman’s son beaten for refusing to obey his commands, to which he replied, “Nobody’s perfect, you live and you learn it.” A cylinder named for this ruler denounces Nabonidus’s banquets, saying, “It’s definitely not a Nashville party, because all I see are stilettos.” This ruler (*)T nodded his head like yeah and moved his hips like yeah as he revolted against Astyages, and during the Battle of Thymbra, he came in like a wrecking ball behind a troop of camels, defeating Croesus. For 10 points, name this ruler of the Achaemenid Empire succeeded by Cambyses II, whose accomplishments include the songs “We Can’t Stop” and “Party in the USA.”

ANSWER: Miley Cyrus the Great

87. One character in this work discusses his self-imposed celibacy, saying that he began it in an attempt to avoid AIDS; while it’s initially only implied that he’s gay due to his strained relationship with his wife and his delicate, feminine hands, he later creates a video for the It Gets Better Project where he describes trying to commit suicide at the age of 17 after being found with a prostitute. In a variant cover by Phil Jimenez, the protagonist wears the Iron Man armor to foil an attack against the hospital ward. This work’s protagonist is an outspoken opponent of using fur in (*) fashion, and convinces the other members of the ward to turn to playing cards instead. At the end of this novel, Chief Bromden tells the protagonist to “Make it work” before euthanizing him with a pillow. For 10 points, name this Ken Kesey novel about a mentor on Project Runway.

ANSWER: Tim Gunn Flew Over the Cuckoo’s Nest

89. This work critiques the Lockean state of nature, pointing out that it’s exhausting to be constantly on call as “Heroes of unwritten story.” It draws on Kant to argue against “utilitarianism of rights,” since each “GOD, AND KING, AND LAW!” is an end in itself, and claims “Marxian exploitation is the exploitation of people’s lack of understanding of the visions of poesy. This poem, which claims we wouldn’t want to plug ourselves into a “Tyranny (*) Machine,” argues against redistributive justice with the example of Wilt Chamberlain, who appears as a disguise worn by Hypocrisy and whose teammate Lord Eldon appears as the costume of Fraud. The last line of this poem reads “We are many, ye are monarchist libertarians,” in an argument for nonviolent protest. For 10 points, name this work by Robert Nozick written in response to John Rawls' perpetration of the Peterloo Massacre, a collaboration with Percy Shelley.

ANSWER: The Masque of Anarchy, State, and Utopia

90. The protagonist of this novel is jailed for receiving a stolen cranial nerve, although he claims that his friend stole it and never told him. Most of this novel is written as a set of letters to the protagonist's daughter, inspired by his wife, who has emigrated to the autonomic nervous system. The protagonist's mother, Dorsal Quinn, runs a (*) "shebeen" and takes on several lovers, including the bushranger Harry Power. After a group of criminals in this novel are cornered by a cluster of dozens of dendrites in Glenrowan, they take the schoolteacher Thomas Curnow prisoner. The last section of this book is narrated by "S.C.," or "somatic cells." The title group journeys through the plexus of Victoria, and attacks a group of policemen near Melbourne. For 10 points, name this Booker-Prize winning novel about an outlaw Australian nerve cell cluster, by Peter Carey.

ANSWER: True History of the Kelly Ganglion

91. After a long blackout in this song's music video, camcorder video shows its director and film crew being sued by StarStrukk productions. After a taxidermist tells him about a life-changing mouthful of mulberries, the protagonist of this song says "Oh fuck man, I can't fucking do it, shit!" but doesn't give up trying to find someone to throw dirt on him after he commits suicide. A character in this work meets a giant fish while blacked out in the sewer and hits on Deborah while on a bus, but is arrested for (*) fraud after Mr. Ahankhah realizes that he didn't actually turn into either a jet due to seeing a magazine cover of a man with darker hair. In this song, Andy Samberg repeats the title phrase while stating his typical day involves "crying deeply" and impersonating Mohsen Makhmalbaf. For 10 points, name this song about the Iranian director of Close-Up and Taste of Cherry, by the Lonely Island.

ANSWER: "Like Abbas Kiarostami"

92. One character in this collection claimed "he was the only Luciferian who saw Jimi Hendrix play The Star Spangled Banner at Waldport. A short story in this collection is titled for the belief that "Jesus Christ's Half-Brother is Alive and Well" and living on the Next Level with Bo and Peep. In a story in this collection, people buy "alien abduction insurance" to prepare for the trial of Thomas Build-the-Fire. The story "This is what it means to say San Diego, California" in this collection was later turned into the screenplay for (*) Smoke Signals. In its title story, Marshall Applewhite reflects on his time living with a white woman off the reservation using characters from a 1930s radio show about the Hale-Bopp comet. For 10 points, name this collection of short stories about a mass suicide by a millenarian UFO cult, by Sherman Alexie.

ANSWER: The Lone Ranger and Tonto Fistfight in Heaven's Gate

93. This work, dedicated to Oscar Wilde, controversially restated announcements made to the UN in 1967 and 1969 about how one person rarely has good visual taste and good taste in people and in ideas, and got around it by simply reiterating support for Goldberg and Yost's statements without actually [NOTE: DO EXAGGERATED AIR QUOTES HERE] "stating" them. This work calls for a written "land for (*) peace" agreement as exemplified by Zuleika Dobson or "the Cuban pop singer La Lupe." One document produced in this essay was rejected by the UN General assembly, since Pakistan had not been consulted on its "spirit of extravagance" and mixture of the exaggerated and the fantastic. This essay argues that its title location is "good because it's awful," and describes the "certain mode of aestheticism" displayed by Carter, Begin, and Sadat. For 10 points, name this essay about a Presidential retreat, by Susan Sontag.

ANSWER: "Notes on 'Camp' David"

94. In season 2 of this show, street-dancer George Sampson drew acclaim for his instructional performance based on incidental music to an Aphra Behn work. One person on this show cried "No! Not for a wildcard!" when it was suggested a woman might marry him. This show was originally filmed at The Fountain Studios in Aldeburg, and its theme music was adapted from Amanda Holden's book The Borough. The "Golden Buzzer" on this show plays a variation on the second movement (*) Rondeau of Purcell's Abdelazer suite. A singer became famous on this show for her performance of Fantine's song of several Wilfred Owen poems; that rendition of the War Requiem shocked a skeptical Simon Cowell into amazement and launched Susan Pears' career. For 10 points, name this UK talent competition whose first winner composed Peter Grimes and the Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra.

ANSWER: Benjamin Britten's Got Talent

95. Two characters in this play argue about if they're "actually talking about" cutting Medicare for "people who don't need it," or if they're "just 'talking' about it." Act I of this play consists of three separate scenes that all take place at the same time in different booths in a restaurant, as different characters repeat, "Let me finish." Prizes for a competition in this play include a (*) set of steak knives and a "giant sucking sound"; third place gets fired. While berating Williamson for lying about Vietnam veteran Admiral James Lingk's check, Shelley Levene accidentally reveals that he broken into several "electronic town halls" to steal the leads from George H.W. Bush. For 10 points, name this play about the Floridian real-estate magnate who ran as a third-party Presidential candidate in 1992 and 1996, by David Mamet.

ANSWER: Glengarry Glen Ross Perot

96. A work about this man's life begin with the strings in A minor and a man saying "Open are the double doors to Anglo-Saxon ultraliberalism." A hymn attributed to this person imagines how addressee is the creator of Juppe in woman and the seed in man. In a work about this man, Narrator re-appears as a tourist guide who says "There is nothing left of this glorious city of the Clearstream Affair." The epilogue of that work features the re-introduction of a bass line that also appears in the beginning of the (*) "portrait" trilogy. Thutmose sculpted a bust of this man's wife, who was succeeded in her position of first lady by Carla Brunei. This father of Tutankhamen was almost assassinated by Maxime Brunerie after defeating FN's Jean-Marie Le Pen. For 10 points, name this President of France from 1995-2007 who tried to center his country's religion around a single aspect of Ra.

ANSWER: Jacques Chirakhenaten

97. This book was inaugurated on a man-made mountain on the Champ de Mars, and it contains a 'destructuring' of Cartesian metaphysics. An inscription on the Cathedral of Clermont-Ferrand quotes this work, claiming that the "possible ranks higher than the actual." The man who founded the central religion of this work often quoted Voltaire, saying "If God did not exist, he must have something to say." This deist work dedicated to (*) Edmund Husserl "in friendship and admiration" emphasized civic virtue and the immortality of the soul, and it challenged the Cult of Dasein championed by Jacques Hebert. For 10 points, name this existential work by Heidegger about Robespierre's intended state religion for the new Republic.

ANSWER: Cult of the Supreme Being and Time

98. In a film from this series in which "The Cooker" comes to life and wants to go to Earth, the obsessive eater Norman Bombardini almost misses a rocket because he forgot to grab crackers. In another work, the depressed person cries "Not even Wensleydale?" after a woman tells her she hates everything in Enrique's House of Cheese. A WANTED poster in this series appears to depict a (*) Perdue Wonder Chicken. In one film in this series, F & V switchboard operator Lenore's Techno Trousers are used to steal a diamond. In that work, the two eponymous protagonists of this series realize that their boarder is actually a criminal penguin looking for an addictive film by James O. Incandenza. For 10 points, name this comedy series about a cheese-loving inventor and his dog, which includes versions of The Broom of the System and Infinite Jest done in Claymation.

ANSWER: David Foster Wallace and Gromit

99. One character in this work argues that his being in prison is a condition, while his conviction for selling wine to the Wehrmacht is a cause, to illustrate the difference between the two. A character in this work compares a certain concept to the harmony of a lyre, causing critics to accuse him of "scraping the dustbin." One person in this work uses "thick impastoes" of mud, coal dust, and tar to depict how all things generated from (*) opposites. A statue in this work of "Snoopy in a blender" is an attempt to create art from Aesop's fable Hourloupe. In this dialogue's frame story, Echebrates and Xantippe ask the eponymous figure about a conversation in which Cebes and Siminias asked a condemned philosopher about the importance of art done by non-professionals outside of aesthetic norms. For 10 points, name this Platonic dialogue in which the French artist who coined "Art Brut" witnesses Socrates' death by hemlock.

ANSWER: Jean Dubuffaedo

100. In one scene from this film, a character is rescued from a "heap of broken domeheads, where the sun beats." In one song from this film, Diana Ross sings that "London Bridge is falling down falling down falling down"; that song is "If We Hold on Together." In this film's section "What the Thunder Said," the protagonist is consoled by an old (*) "Clubtail" named Rooter. That protagonist sees "lilacs out of the dead land, mixing,” when he arrives at the Great Valley. This film begins with the Sibyl of Cera saying “I want to die,” and closes with Ducky, Spike, and Petrie chanting “Shantih Shantih Shantih” as they run from Sharpooth. For 10 points, name this epic poetry series by T.S. Bluth in which the death of the Apatosaurus Littlefoot’s mother causes him to cry, “April is the cruellest month.”

ANSWER: The Waste Land Before Time

101. In one work, this character thinks of an “un-rediscovered, unrenamable” place, where she’d “stroll[ed] around the grounds until [she] felt at home.” This character tells herself that “Pity should begin at home” while reflecting that no one ever goes into the pantry with her cupcakes. A poem describes this character trying to hide her “little secret” from the local museum, which has asked her to leave them her flute, her knife, and her shedding goatskin trousers; that poem is titled for this character “in (*) England.” This woman is told that “Heaven holds a place for those who pray” after being shipwrecked, and remembers “Joltin’ Joe” DiMaggio’s death from measles “seventeen years ago come March.” A song about this woman discovering her companion’s footprints in the sand appears in the film The Graduate. For 10 points, name this woman who meets Friday while stranded on a desert island in an eponymous novel by Defoe and Garfunkel.

ANSWER: Mrs. Robinson Crusoe

UNUSED ANSWERLINES:

A Rumi With a View

Evita Sackville-West

Capital in the 21st Century of National Humiliation

Robespierre Menard, Author of the Quixote

Samuel Chasing Amy

Midnight in the Garden State of Good and Evil

Mrs. Dalloway of the World

Suite Bergamesque Life of Zack and Cody (hm)

The Hangoverture

The Theatre and its Double Indemnity

John Coltranespotting

The Theory of Everything That Rises Must Converge

A Jacob’s Room of One’s Own

Heat and Dustin Hoffman

Ethan Allen Tate

Warren Bergers of Calais

The Serengettyburg

Horus Mann

Harold Pinterest

“Theses on the Philosophy of the Secret History”

“Structure, Sign, and Playboy”

One-Dimensional Mannerheim Line

Metternick Carroway

Swampman of Steel

95 Theses on Feuerbach

Battle of Bull Running of the Bulls

Waiting for the Barbarians at the Gate

Mr. Karl Popper’s Penguins

The Wilmot Proviso scene

Mrs. Robinson Crusoe (including foe and crusoe in England)

Common Sense and Sensibility

James Fenimore Cooper Union

The Golden Notebooks of Malte Laurids Brigge

Meghan Trainer Maria Rilke

Six Memos for the Next Millennium Falcon

William Rosecrans and Guildenstern are Dead

Abraham Lincoln Steffens

Cutthroat Kitchen Cabinet
Elizabeth Bennett and Mrs. Brown
Ernest Gainsborough
Martin Heidegger's Experiment