Round 3 - Tossups

Written by Joe Ham and JP Park

#1: (A) This ability has a cooldown of 2 seconds, but a much longer cooldown when trying to activate in the same area. This dash-based ability's speed is dependent on the user's movement speed. It is one of three terrain targeted dashes, one of which is Nautilus's Dredge Line. This ability was incorporated in one of the most recent large scale reworks to a champion. For 10 points, name this ability, the E ability of Talon that allows him to parkour over walls.

ANSWER: Assassin's Path (do not accept "parkour," prompt on Talon E before mentioned)

#2: (C) This champion has the most unique laugh emotes out of any champion, with six. This champion also has the ability with the longest basic ability stun duration in the game, with a 2.5 second stun at max rank. This champion is one of the few that can theoretically infinitely stack on a stat if given infinite time. This champion's ultimate ability has one of the highest base damages in the game, and deals damage based on the target's missing health. For 10 points, name this tiny master of evil.

ANSWER: Veigar

#3: (O) Although these objects do not have any armor or magic resistance, they take only 85% damage from champions. Damage to these objects are calculated by adding either your bonus attack damage or 40% of your ability power to your base attack damage, whichever is higher. Despite being a significant objective, no one can teleport to this object. This object can be respawned 5 minutes after it is destroyed. For 10 points, name this object, which is announced to be respawning 15 seconds before it actually does.

ANSWER: inhibitors

#4: (E ) Originally a GunZ: The Duel player, this player moved to League of Legends in early Season 1. This player had very little competitive experience before being picked in Season 3 up as a sub for Curse Academy to play in an NESL match. Eventually this player was moved to the main roster, competing in the MOBAFire Challenger Series as their support.
