

Rush job packet by Eric Douglass. Sincere apologies for everything about this packet, but I had to drive to Richmond.

Underlined is Superpower

Bold is Power

USC-Upstate Chancellor Tom Moore received a sundial from one person from this town. In this town, the Florida-based relatives of a resident of this town were adamant about getting a nipple ring off of that resident. One person in this town was one of the few people in the United States to engage in the practice of fire gilding. “A Rose for Emily” by The Zombies provided the ending theme for a show about this town, where the father of a man who was falsely accused of murder, Kendall Burt, purchased a labyrinth created by one of this town’s residents. which got its derisive nickname from John B. McLemore. For 10 points, name this town in Alabama that was the subject of a podcast hosted by Brian Reed.

ANSWER: Woodstock, Alabama [or S-Town; or Shit Town] (town under 50,000)

This city is the location of a performance venue called The Crystal Palace, and the “Louisiana Swing” was the first song recorded that is recognized as a part of this city’s signature music. A song about a man who is “the biggest fool to ever hit the big time” was performed by a musician associated with this city who teamed up with Roy Clark as the host of Hee-Haw. The site of the Kern County Basque Festival, this city’s most well known musical ambassador was the singer of “Act Naturally,” Buck Owens. For 10 points, name this California city that is known for its namesake, unrefined “sound” of country music.

ANSWER: Bakersfield (country)

A supposedly haunted house that might serve as a future embassy for one of these nations was the setting for the movie The House That Never Dies. The establishment and activities of the CPCA is a bone of contention between these two countries, and the diplomats from one of these countries was expelled from the other following Antonio Riva’s execution for espionage. The appointment of Joseph Li Shan was approved by one of these nations, making him one of the few cardinals in the other nation that is in full communion with the Church. For 10 points, name these two countries, one of which sent President Ma Ying-Jeou to attend the innauguration of Pope Francis in 2013.

ANSWER: Holy See-People’s Republic of China [or Vatican] (foreign affairs)

This case set forth a test that measures the probability and gravity of a loss versus the burden of taking precautions. It arose after the barges at Pier 52 broke free, resulting in the sinking of the Anna C. For 10 points, name this case ubiquitous in first year torts classes authored by Learned Hand that set forth the test for calculating negligence.

ANSWER: *U.S. v. Carroll Towing Co. (something Brownstein might not know but others might)

Maria Oquendo wrote an August 2016 blog post stating that breaking this provision is “unethical and irresponsible”, and a March 2017 Ethics Committee opinion held that the the duty to warn in the Tarasoff doctrine does not apply in overriding this doctrine. In arguing against this provision, Leonard Glass wrote an op-ed that notes Abraham Lincoln and Winston Churchill managed to be excellent leaders despite certain afflictions and described this provision as a gag rule. A February 9 letter to the editor in the New York Times by Dr. Lance Dodes questioned this guideline, claiming, “We feel that too much is at stake to be silent any longer.” This guideline stemmed from an incident in which Fact magazine polled professionals about a man who wrote The Conscience of a Conservative. For 10 points, name this tenet of the American Psychiatric Association that prohibits psychiatrists from offering opinions on someone they have not personally evaluated, a rule that has come under increasing pressure with the election of President Trump.

ANSWER: Goldwater Rule (current events)

A German company called ASB Glass Floors has been considered to help preserve this artwork because its transparent glass surfaces would preserve this work while allowing it to fulfill its original purpose. This work includes the name of its artist in a circle with the number 77 in the middle. Andy Gorzalski and Greg Koller, the owner of ProStar Inc., purchased this work, which was on sale for scrap for $20,000 and teamed up with its original artist to reconstruct it. This work included 2 back to back Ms that form a diamond in the middle, and it was the world’s largest pop art painting. This work was boxed up after the 1988 move to the Bradley Center. For 10 points, name this possibly second most famous creation by Robert Indiana, which was located in an arena named for a holy city of Islam in Milwaukee on which the Bucks played.

ANSWER: The basketball floor/court/whatever of the Mecca [accept the court of the Milwaukee Bucks prior to it being mentioned] (modern art)

Shortly after this piece was played on a television show, Bobby Colby was described as having a crater in his colon the size of a cutlet, and that piece was again played in the same episode after Eddie Sherman choked after being shaken. This piece was played during a scene in which 4 women under a willow tree were knitting a tiger pattern during the Spasgiving 3: Slapointment in Slapmarra episode of How I Met Your Mother. The flashback sequence on The Fatigues episode of Seinfeld sees this piece getting played as Frank Costanza remembers giving food poisoning to the Fighting 103rd. For 10 points, name this really sad piece of music most famously used in Platoon, a work of Samuel Barber.

ANSWER: Adagio for Strings (tv/movie classical American)

One chapter of this work is named for a British singer who had a hit cover of the Supreme's You Keep Me Hanging On and the debut single Kids in America. The main character in this work sits in a bathtub to try empathize with her grandfather and enjoys the comic book Dialectic Materialism. Young men in this work are provided with plastic keys to paradise, and Gord Afarid is one of the figures that would be featured at a proposed theme park in this work. The main character of this work is the last relative to see Uncle Anoosh alive and her parents, Ebi and Taji, were former dissidents against the Shah. For 10 points, name this graphic novel about Marji's childhood in Iran, a work by Marjane Satrapi.

ANSWER: Persepolis

A sentence around the middle of this thing says, "Where did anyone ever see a porch or peristyle of that sort?" The last sentence of this thing says, "As for himself, he prefers reasons to authorities; he has always cared more for arms than for coats-of arms." The first sentence of this thing says, "The drama contained in the following pages has nothing to commend it to the attention or good will of the public." For 10 points, name this opening to a play by the man who wrote Les Miserables that doesn't appear to have a Wikipedia article but came up at Nats several years back.

ANSWER: Preface to Cromwell

One romantic interest of this man once tried to cook a chicken for his mother by stuffing a chicken with raw vegetables and microwaving it. La La Anthony hosted reunions of a show featuring this man. This man was on a show in which he gave people nicknames because he could remember nicknames easier than real names. Deelishis and Hoopz were some of his romantic interests. This man had a relationship with Brigitte Nielsen on one show he was on. That show with this man on it spun off from Strange Love and resulted in spinoffs like I Love New York and Rock of Love. For 10 points, name this rapper known for large clocks around his neck who was in Public Enemy.

ANSWER: Flavor Flav (or whatever his real name is) (stereotypical of 2000s)

You wanted a tossup on a number greater than 100? You got a tossup on a number greater than 100! This is the medical telephone number in China. This is the number to report a car breakdown on a highway in Austria. It's the title of a 2008 Turkish film about children who carried ammunition to the Battle of Sarikamish during WWI. It's the height, in cubits, of the Temple building in II Chronicles. This many years ago last month, the Klondike Gold Rush began and Queen Victoria celebrated her Diamond Jubilee. It's the number of seats in the Knesset and the age at which Moses died. This many years ago, William McKinley was sworn in as president. For 10 points, give this number that is equal to six score.

ANSWER: 120

Ed Rotberg was supposedly a developer of this thing, and a man named Steve Roach claimed to be involved in its creation. It was associated with a company called Sinneslöschen and an alleged screenshot of this thing is said to have a font called "bius titel." This thing was supposedly similar to Tempest, but incorporated mazes and logic puzzles. It allegedly appeared in Portland suburbs in 1981, and men in black were alleged to have data mined it before removing it from the general public altogether. Said to have caused hallucinations, seizures, and suicidal thoughts, for 10 points, name this video game of urban legend.

ANSWER: Polybius

BuzzFeed reporter Katie Notopoulos argued that this man misattributed a quote in a twitter war with this man in his autobiography Suck & Blow. He got into a twitter feud with the anti-trump "assbot" in 2016. In a Twitter war, this person tweeted "Welcome to the light cockroach!" and "that's it take pride in who U are....take responsibility Pube Forrest...." after posting a google earth view of his adversary's house. Those barbs were aimed by this man at Forrest Rutherford, a Kentucky social services worker who angered this man in a twitter war about this man's claim in a Behind the Music episode that he was once too obsese to masturbate. This man had the idea for the Horde Festival in the 1990s, and he and his band appeared at the end of the movie Kingpin, and his band had hits with Runaround and The Hook. For 10 points, name this singer and harmonocist, the lead singer for Blues Traveler.

ANSWER: John Popper (twitter)

After addressing one character as "Bogey", this character claims to be the instructor in a class called "Pain 101." In a 2007 movie, he teams with another character who goes by the name "Nightwatcher" and in a 2014 movie he has the nickname "Friday the 13th" and is played by Stephen Arnell. He was twice played on film by Elias Koteas. Described in one film as "Wayne Gretzky on steroids", he is a sometimes romantic interest of April O'Neal, and activated a trash compacter to crush Shredder in one movie. For 10 points, name this masked, hockey stick weilding character, a vigilante who frequently appears in Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles cartoons and films.

ANSWER: Casey Jones

Roger Crozier accomplished this feat in the 1966 championship series in which he protested that Henri Richard pushed a puck with his hand, becoming the first NHL player to do this. In a game known as the Blunder Bowl, Chuck Howley intercepted passes by Johnny Unitas and Earl Morrall to accomplish this. Jerry West became the only NBA player to do this in the 1969 Finals, and Bobby Richardson did this after hitting .367 with 12 RBIs in a 1960 World Series that was won by the Pirates. For 10 points, name this feat in which a person who does not get a championship ring is nevertheless recognized as the best performing player in the championship.

ANSWER: MVP for Losing Team in a Championship (baseball not player or team)

In reviewing this episode for the New York Times, Noel Murray recommends watching Peter Tscherkassky's Outer Space and Instructions for a Light and Sound Machine. "My Prayer" by The Platters is played on KPJK during this episode. One character on this episode that had previously been credited as something else was credited on this episode as a series of question marks. This episode's soundtrack includes an excerpt from Threnody for the Victims of Hiroshima during a detonation scene, and this episode includes a performance by The Nine Inch Nails in the middle of it. A poem beginning with the words, "This is the water, and this is the well..." is recited multiple times over the air by a spectral woodsman in this episode, which ends with a frog/bug crawling into a sleeping teenage girl's mouth. For 10 points, name this episode of the current season of Twin Peaks, whose episode name is often asked by people who want to smoke a cigarette but don't have a match.

ANSWER: Twin Peaks: The Return Episode 8 [Got a Light?] (specific tv show)

This individual believes that he took a picture of a spectral Randy Savage at a February local wrestling event and advertised legit counterfeit money on Craigslist. He's not Bruce Arthur, but this individual was involved in an incident with a machete and baseball bat last week with his son over the custody of a hedgehog. Also this past week, this person attempted to convince a 17 year old to give him $45. Implicated mutple times in illegal butt injection scams, he once used his private plane to draw a giant radar penis. Possibly a result of generous local freedom of information laws, he is the namesake of a Cigar City Brewing Double IPA in the state he calls home. For 10 points, name this superhero who lives in places such as Gainesville, Vero Beach, Ocala, Kissimee, St. Pete, Tampa, Tallahassee, and Miami and who is an adult male.

ANSWER: Florida Man ($45)

One character with this first name was killed in the first episode of Season 4 of Airwolf and was played by Ernest Borgnine. The patron saint of astronomers has this name. A baseball player of this first name was the younger brother of Vince, was known as the "Little Professor", and was also the younger brother of Joe. For 10 points, give this first name of a portly, bearded man who starred in Cannonball Run with Burt Reynolds, a Mr. Delouise.

ANSWER: Dominic (2002 NAQT)

One character who lives in this city describes this city as "Paradise on earth" and sings about a character who is "a soaring soul/As free as a mountain bird" after getting kissed. One city of this name is currently a near ghost town, was faced with widespread racial tension in the 1960s and 70s, and was the site of Fort Defiance. A translator in this city notes that a certain staff has to be cut in a movie in which, two characters, one of whom played by William Hootkins, stated that the Tannis development was proceeding outside of this city. One character was nearly poisoned in this city in which a monkey died of “bad dates.” Sugar Street, Palace Walk, and Midaq Alley are part of a trilogy named for this place. For 10 points, name this city that was the subject of a trilogy by Naguib Mahfuz and was near the site of the burial of the Lost Ark in Raiders.

ANSWER: Cairo (written from memory)

In his autobiography, record producer Clive Davis wrote that a conceptual music video for a song by this man featuring dancing corpses and vampires was banned from MTV due to its depiction of an interracial relationship. In an SNL sketch, a jazz musician named Winston Graff, played by Tim Meadows, directly quotes a song by this man after saying, “I pity the fool.” This man is featured in a skit in which he sings lyrics such as “Come on Mr. Computer, throw me a bone,” “It’s getting legal, y’all”, and “That’s not even a word” for movies such as Lawnmower Man, Pelican Brief, and Disturbia; this man was played by Jordn Peele in that sketch. This man had a top 10 hit with The Other Woman and he was sued for copyright violations when comparisons were drawn between his greatest hit and “I Want a New Drug” by Huey Lewis and the News.

This man’s greatest hit states “Busting makes me feel good” and asks “Who you gonna call?” For 10 points, name this singer who is most famous for singing the theme for the original Ghostbusters.

ANSWER: Ray Parker Jr. (copyright)

An actor with this surname played a 1980s television character who was held captive by his former partner Ivan Trigorin, occasionally visited the title group at their Langley, Virginia safehouse, and headed up the EIA. That actor with this surname appeared in a series of commercials for law firms nationwide in which he says, “Tell them you mean business!” and played Hunt Stockwell in the final season of The A Team. A player with this surname was a 3 time all star first baseman known as the “Hit Dog.” One character with this surname played by Bridgitte Wilson-Sampras is described by a bus driver as a “piece of ace” and Charlie Sheen played a character with this surname who played in the California penal league prior to a stint with the Cleveland Indians. For 10 points, give this surname of the teacher Veronica on Billy Madison and Wild Thing Rick on Major League that is also the surname of the actor who starred in Dodgeball, Wedding Crashers, and Old School.

ANSWER: Vaughn (sp) [note: award an extra 5 points for someone who answers in the form of Matt Morrison]

Love Plus One; Greenfields; Strange But True; Can This Be Real; Yogi; Joy; I’m On Fire; Somebody’s Been Sleeping; Something About You; Concrete and Clay; Over and Over; The

Blob; Wiggle It; O-o-h Child; They're Coming to Take Me Away Ha ha!; Ding Dong the Witch Is Dead; Come Baby Come; Short Dick Man; Back to the Hotel; Woot There It Is; Kyptonite; Get Ready for This; Caught up In You; Inside Out; Cumbersome; Brick; Red Red Wine; Wobble Wobble; Fatlip; Walk Like a Man; What's Up; All the Small Things; Drag Me Down; Closer; Love Shack; Moves Like Jagger; With or Without You; In Da Club; ABC. For 10 points, the bands that performed the preceding list of songs have what nominal similarity?

ANSWER: hit songs by bands with numbers in their names [prompt on "one hit wonders" since a bunch of these songs fall into that category] (list)

Thomas Noe was convicted in 2006 of stealing from an investment fund that focused on these items. In 1278, several hundred Jews were detained in the Tower of London on suspicion of tampering with these items. One scandal during Bob Taft's governorship of Ohio stemmed from largescale investment in these items by the Ohio Bureau of Workers Compensation. Ebay recognizes PCGS, ICGm ANACS and Numismatic Guaranty Corporation as acceptable certifiers of these objects. For 10 points, name these items which include the 1913 Liberty Head, 1933 Double Eagle, and the penny.

ANSWER: coins (collectibles)

In a recent standup special, a comic noted that he never once claimed that a teacher with this name "...cuts a heroic figure." In that same special, Hitler's Dog, Gossip & Trickery, Norm Macdonald describes a practical joke in which a man commits suicide and falsely blames it on a barber with this name as practical joke. A historic figure with this name was the pastor of West Hunter Street Baptist Church in Atlanta. That man with this name alienated members of the civil rights movement for endorsing Ronald Reagan for president and writing about Martin Luther King Jr.'s personal life in his autobiography And the Walls Came Tumbling Down. That man with this name led 1968's Poor People's March on Washington. For 10 points, name this civil rights leader who succeeded Martin Luther King as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Coalition.

ANSWER: Ralph David Abernathy (standup)