

By Jonathan Magin

These days, this actress is a Marianne Williamson-esque guru who sells self-help books about healing like Conscious Creation. This actress and her then-husband Christopher played the parents in the early '90s TV show The New Lassie. She played the Landlady in the opening scenes of The House of the Devil and Lynne Wood in Wes Craven's The Hills Have Eyes. This actress played Donna Trenton, who becomes trapped in her Ford Pinto along with her son Tad while fighting off a rabid Saint Bernard, in the film adaptation of (*) Cujo. This scream queen starred in The Howling and Critters, but is better known for a scene where her character sees a ghost costume and believes it is her daughter Gertie instead of the title creature. For 10 points, name this actress who played Mary, the mom of Elliott, in *E.T.

ANSWER: Dee Wallace Stone

A creature voiced by this actor claims that his species aspires to aspects of civilization like “the Geneva Convention, chamber music, Susan Sontag” during an interview with Grandpa Fred. He played the brash history teacher Harvey Weskit in the sitcom Mr. Peepers, and voiced the Brain Gremlin in Gremlins 2. This actor starred with Doris Day and Rock Hudson in the romantic comedies Pillow Talk, Send Me No Flowers, and Lover Come Back. He played the title advertising executive, who pretends to be Jayne Mansfield's boyfriend to get her to endorse Stay-Put lipstick, in the 1957 satire Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter? He is most well known for starring along with (*) Jack Klugman in a TV show adapted from a Neil Simon play. For 10 points, name this actor who played the fastidious Felix Unger in the 1970s sitcom The Odd Couple.

ANSWER: Tony Randall [or Leonard Rosenberg]

For one of his roles, this actor wore wire-frame rimless glasses because the director thought it made his character resemble Heinrich Himmler. He portrayed the President of the Federation in Star Trek VI: The Undiscovered Country and played Mr. Perry, who attempts to withdraw his son Neil from Welton Academy, in Dead Poets Society. During an attempted drug deal in a factory, a character played by this actor sarcastically responds to henchmen aiming their weapons by exclaiming “Oooh! Guns, guns, guns!” In his most famous movie, his character shoots a Cobra Assault Cannon to destroy Joe Cox's brand new (*) SUX 6000. In that movie, the villain played by this character declares “Bitches, leave” before killing Bob Morton and leads a gang that menaces Old Detroit. For 10 points, name this actor who played Clarence Boddicker in Robocop and Red Forman on That '70s Show.

ANSWER: Kurtwood Smith

This actor is signed on to play Nate “Sweetwater” Clifton in the movie Sweetwater, which has been in pre-production since 2008. This actor played Ace, a Harlem drug dealer who teams up with Rico, played by Cam'ron, and Mitch, played by Mekhi Phifer, in the cult classic Paid in Full. Near the beginning of Creed, this actor's character Tony “Little Duke” Evers refuses to train Adonis Creed. This actor's violent roles include Kay, the enforcer for Ma-Ma, in Dredd, and Motaw, the homicidal right-hand man of Birdie, in (*) Above the Rim. Another of his characters is let out of jail on early parole by a scheme to plant drugs on security guard Dwight Tilghman. That character played by this actor reaches out to Brother Mouzone to reclaim his territory before being betrayed by his longtime partner Stringer Bell. For 10 points, name this actor who portrayed Avon Barksdale in The Wire.

ANSWER: Wood Harris

This actor played the scheming businessman Alonzo Hawk in the Disney films Son of Flubber, Herbie Rides Again, and The Absent-Minded Professor. In Francis Ford Coppola's movie Finian's Rainbow, this actor played the racist Senator Billboard Rawkins, who is turned black by a wish on a magical pot of gold. He joined his father Ed in the version of Requiem for a Heavyweight performed live on Playhouse 90, where he played Maish, the corrupt manager of “Mountain” McClintock. In his most famous role, he calls a character played by Peter Sellers a “deviated prevert” on (*) Burpelson Air Force Base. In that scene, this actor tells Lionel Mandrake that if he doesn’t get the President on the phone, “You’re gonna have to answer to the Coca-Cola company.” For 10 points, name this actor who played Colonel “Bat” Guano in Dr. Strangelove.

ANSWER: Keenan Wynn

On a sketch comedy, this actress played a recurring B-level celebrity who frequently tells men her catchphrase, “I want to bear your children!” This actress played Gail, an eccentric vendor of Mr. Softee ice cream encountered by Griffin Dunne, in After Hours. She played Marilyn Hack, who gets extensive plastic surgery because she believes she will receive an Oscar for her role in Home for Purim, in the mockumentary For Your Consideration. Though she portrayed Lola Heatherton on SCTV and (*) Moira Rose in Schitt’s Creek, she is more famous for movie roles like Cookie Fleck in Best in Show and Delia Deetz in Beetlejuice. In her most famous role, she is driven from a busy airport to Chicago in a truck rented by Gus Polinski, the Polka King of the Midwest. For 10 points, name this Canadian actress best known for playing Kevin’s mother Kate McAllister in Home Alone.

ANSWER: Catherine O’Hara

According to Rotten Tomatoes, during the first ten years of his career, this baby-faced actor played “innumerable college intellectuals and hapless freshmen” in movies like Pigskin Parade. In the final gag of Hellzapoppin’, this actor seems unharmed by gunfire before drinking a glass of water which spurts from his bullet holes. In a notorious scene from the 1944 movie Phantom Lady, he plays a drummer who performs an increasingly orgiastic solo while being egged on by Ella Raines. He played the elderly mobster Ice Pick in the TV show Magnum, P.I. and flops into the mud after being gunned down by Jack Palance in Shane. He often played saps or fall guys in film noirs, such as the malevolent “gunsel” for Sydney Greenstreet’s character Kaspar Gutman. For 10 points, name this short character actor who played (*) Wilmer, the psychotic villain of The Maltese Falcon.

ANSWER: Elisha Cook, Jr.

In 2010, this actor was named MVP of the NBA All-Star Celebrity Game for holding Terrell Owens to 10 points. At the end of a movie directed by Robert Siegel, a character played by Patton Oswalt enters a bathroom, shoots this actor with a paintball gun, and yells “Eagles suck!” He played Dick Ritchie, who auditions for a supporting role on T. J. Hooker, in True Romance, and portrayed Philadelphia Phil in Big Fan. This actor directed Beats, Rhymes, and Life, a documentary about A Tribe Called Quest, and played Remy, a troubled college student recruited by a gang of white supremacists, in (*) Higher Education. Though he portrayed teacher Danny Hanson on Boston Public, he is more often seen these days discussing fantasy football with Howard Stern and appearing as a frequent guest of Colin Cowherd. For 10 points, name this character actor known for his New York accent.

ANSWER: Michael Rapaport

A villain played by this actor declares “This community means about as much to me as a festering bowl of dog snot” in a video which secretly records him saying “there is one good thing about broadcasting to a town full of mindless sheep. I always know I have them exactly where I want them.” This actor played Biff Loman in the 1951 film version of Death of a Salesman and toured the United States as Harry Truman in the one-man play Give ‘Em Hell, Harry! He played R. J. Fletcher, the sinister CEO of Channel 8, in (*) UHF; in a more famous role, he starred as a doctor who hides from a mob in a mine along with Becky Driscoll. That movie ends with this actor on a busy highway screaming “They’re here already! You’re next! You’re next!” For 10 points, name this actor who played Dr. Miles Bennell in the original Invasion of the Body Snatchers, and whose sister Mary wrote the novel The Group.

ANSWER: Kevin McCarthy

In Things to Do in Denver When You're Dead, Andy Garcia asks this actress to point out the John who beat her up, then drives to his office and assaults him. In a movie by John Frankenheimer, this actress is hanged by Azazello after he gives into his bloodlust. A girl played by this actress awakens a room full of disembodied female heads by stealing the Powder of Life from Princess Mombi. This actress played Aissa in The Island of Dr. Moreau and holds up a sign saying "Want me to kill them?" as (*) Vicki Vallencourt, who marries Bobby Boucher at the end of The Waterboy. In another role, this actress is struck by lightning while invoking the spirit of Manon. She played Dorothy Gale in Return to Oz, and used magic to disguise herself as Sarah, a member of her coven, in a 1994 film. For 10 points, name this actress who played Nancy Downs, the villain of The Craft.

ANSWER: Fairuza Balk

This actor's first wife, Olive Thurman, was the daughter of civil rights leader Howard Thurman. This actor, who died of a heart attack the night of 9/11, was a beatnik who knew Jack Kerouac and created woodcut illustrations for Dick McBride's first book of poems, Oranges. This actor portrayed Professor Howard Birack, who leads a team of physics graduate students studying a mysterious green liquid which may be the Antichrist, in John Carpenter's movie Prince of Darkness. In Tremors, this actor played Walter, who is eaten by a graboid in his store, and he played the grandfather of Rocky, Colt, and Tum-Tum in the 3 Ninjas movies. This actor was a TV journalist until 1974, when he contracted Bell's palsy, which caused the left side of his face to (*) droop. In a movie prologue, this actor tells an attorney to leave Jack Burton alone before making lightning appear between his palms. For 10 points, name this Chinese-American actor who portrayed Egg Shen in Big Trouble in Little China.

ANSWER: Victor Wong

In the only film written and directed by this actress, Dom DeLuise plays an obese Italian man who struggles against his food addiction. This director of Fatso starred in John Ford's final movie, 7 Women, and played Senator Lillian DeHaven, who uses Demi Moore's character Jordan O'Neill as a bargaining chip, in G. I. Jane. She played Madge Kendall, an actress who tells Joseph Merrick about the works of Shakespeare, in The Elephant Man, a movie produced by her second husband, Mel (*) Brooks. In a long, mostly wordless scene set in a dining room, this actress violently attempts to show a young girl played by Patty Duke how to use a spoon. This actress won an Oscar for playing Anne Sullivan in The Miracle Worker. In her best-known role, she asks a young man to drive her home from a party, and laughs after he awkwardly says "You're trying to seduce me, aren't you?" For 10 points, name this actress who played Mrs. Robinson in The Graduate.

ANSWER: Anne Bancroft [or Anna Maria Louisa Italiano]

A character played by this actor attends a class taught by Ransom Stoddard, where he recites the Declaration of Independence but stumbles over the line "all men are created equal." As a college football player at UCLA, this actor formed the "Gold Dust Trio" along with Kenny Washington and Jackie Robinson. This actor starred as the title cavalry officer, who is falsely accused of raping and murdering Lucy Dabney, in the John Ford movie Sergeant Rutledge, and played Pompey in The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance. His breakout role came in Spartacus, where he played the Ethiopian gladiator Draba. For 10 points, name this African-American character actor whose many roles in Westerns led Pixar to name the sheriff in (*) Toy Story after him.

ANSWER: Woody Strode

This actress portrayed Munch Garnett, a Montreal housewife who performs a sad pole dance after learning about her fifth miscarriage, in Away We Go. In another movie, the song "Funiculi, Funicula" plays as this actress imagines a medieval town full of clay figurines to escape from the reality that she is having sex with her family's lodger John. This actress played Violet Sanford's best friend Gloria in Coyote Ugly, the wife of Mark Whitacre in The Informant! and Rose, the next-door neighbor of Charlie Harper, on (*) Two and a Half Men. She teamed up with Elijah Wood to solve a string of thefts in the 2017 comedy I Don't Feel At Home in This World Anymore, but is best known for her debut, where she played Pauline Parker, a working-class girl who invents the kingdom of Borovnia and the imaginary "Fourth World" along with her friend Juliet Hulme. For 10 points, name this actress from New Zealand who starred with Kate Winslet in Peter Jackson's Heavenly Creatures.

ANSWER: Melanie Lynskey

In X: The Man With the X-Ray Eyes, this actor played a heckler hassling a carnival barker played by Don Rickles. This actor played a pawn shop clerk killed after showing guns to Arnold Schwarzenegger in The Terminator and a janitor electrocuted by killbots in Chopping Mall. In another movie, this actor played a dim-witted busboy who accidentally kills his landlady's cat and casts it in plaster, only for the result to be considered a piece of high art. This actor turned down the role of Seymour in Little Shop of Horrors, though he ended up playing the plant-eating Burson Fouch. He played (*) Walter Paisley in Roger Corman's A Bucket of Blood, and has appeared in every film directed by Joe Dante, including a role as a xenophobic neighbor whose house is destroyed by a snowplow driven by the title creatures. For 10 points, name this beloved character actor who played Murray Futterman in Gremlins.

ANSWER: Dick Miller

In 1997, this actress founded Musee Boribana, the first contemporary art museum in Dakar. Nearly cast as C. J. Cregg in The West Wing, she made her film debut as Nurse Blake in All That Jazz, and played Sister Abigail, who is murdered with a hammer by the malevolent Esther, in the 2009 film Orphan. This actress portrayed Mo'at, a spiritual leader of the Na'vi, in Avatar. A character played by this actress flirts with William Greeley in order to get him to confess to his disturbing sexual crimes before kicking him in the groin. In the Season 11 finale of It's Always Sunny in Philadelphia, the gang is impressed by (*) Dennis's impression of this actress, who played Dr. Angela Hicks in ER. For 10 points, name this Guyanese-American actress who played the partner of Dutch Wagenbach. Detective Claudette Wymys, on The Shield.

ANSWER: Carol Christine Hilaria "CCH" Pounder